Vividly reflecting the burst of dawn, the animation of day, and the vibrance of sunset, White Rock Lake presents a picture of serenity. Memories of Bryan Adams recall moments of electrified excitement and moments of quiet tranquility mirrored in the ever-circling waters of time. Our lives are branches, entwined in the vines of early dreams and surrounded by towering hopes for tomorrow.

Days of our lives are frantic . . . "yet the timelessness in you is aware of life's timelessness and knows that yesterday is but today's memory and tomorrow is today's dream. And that which sings and contemplates in you is still dwelling within the bounds of that first moment which scattered the stars into space."

— Kahlil Gibran

Adding the special details that give a page "life" and checking frantic, last minute page revisions are tasks that demand time and a creative resourcefulness of an annual sponsor. During the past several years and through the completion of the 1970 yearbook, Mrs. Linda Ray occupied this position.

Dividing her time between English classes and annual work, she strove to make the el C the best book possible. Mrs. Marsha Bowlin, the new yearbook sponsor, and Mrs. Ray devoted a great deal of time and effort toward the completion of this year's book. The 1971 el Conquistador staff would like to extend a special "thank you" to Mrs. Linda Ray for her never-failing confidence and assistance.

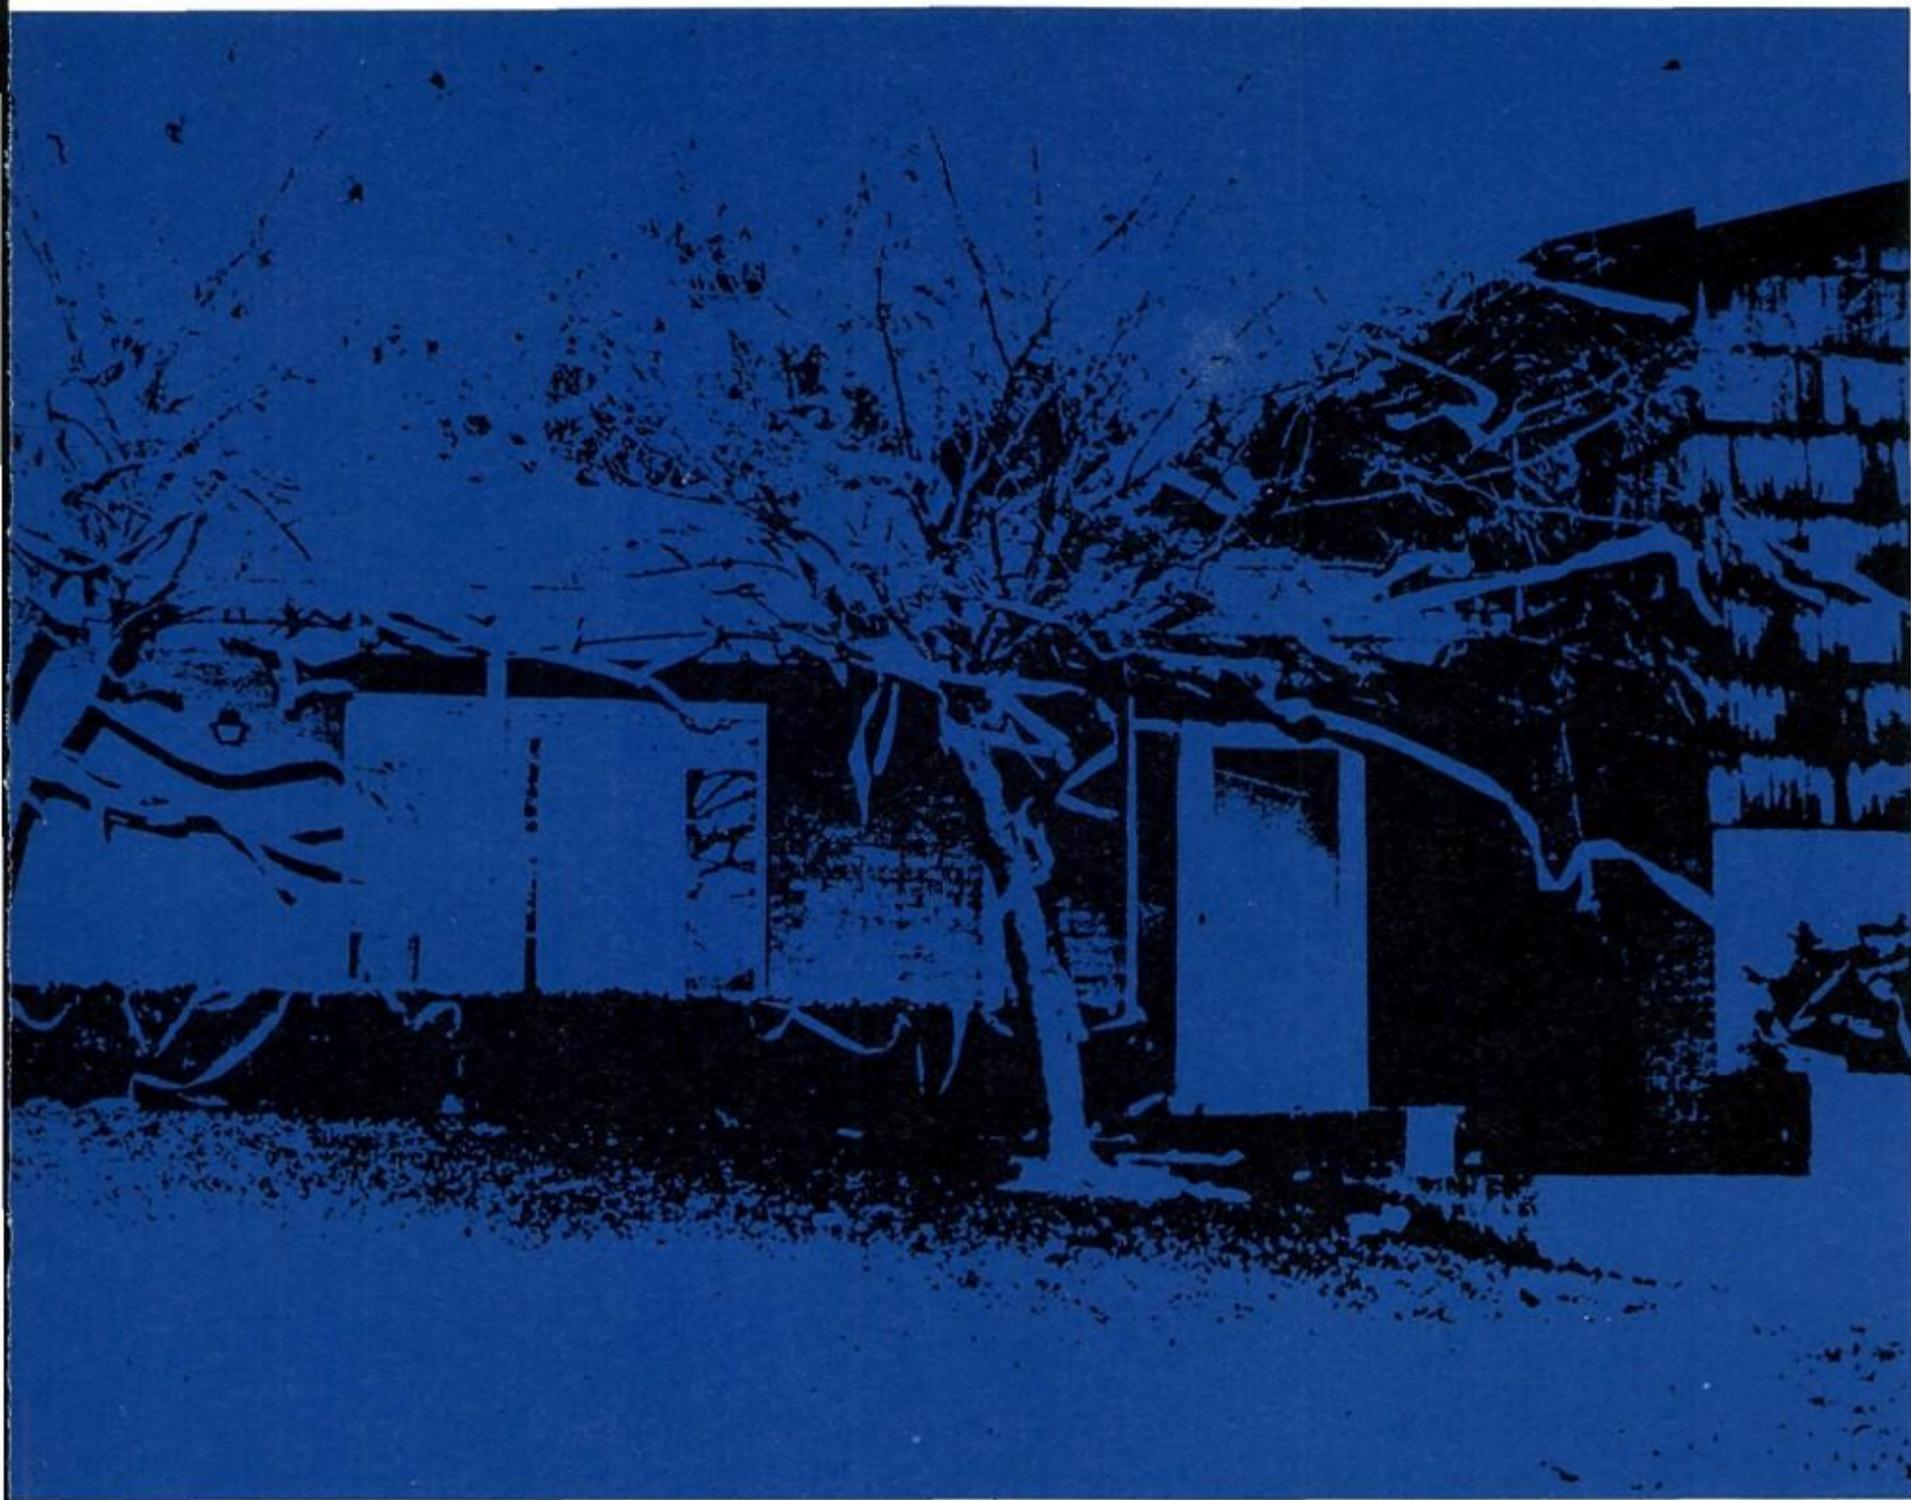

Staff Dedicates Yearbook to Enthusiastic Teacher

"Here's one that'll really cock your pistol," is an ever-familiar phrase of Mr. Tim Hughes, preceding an unbelievable tale of "the Bearded One" (Fidel Castro), or of "Uncle Sugar's" (the United States') relations with a Latin American country in turmoil. Currently a teacher of American and Latin American History, he has provided invaluable instruction to hundreds of students during his years at Bryan Adams.

Awarded special academic scholarships to Mexico and Venezuela, Mr. Hughes relates colorful personal experiences as well as unusual current information to his classes. His unique approach to the classroom situation and contagious enthusiasm win him the respect and admiration of faculty members as well as students. Because of his dedicated service to Bryan Adams, the 1971 el Conquistador staff dedicates this year's book to Mr. Webster Tim Hughes.

August 25 Marks Beginning of School Year

Profound emotions burst to the surface as excited students greeted old and new friends. Lucky sophomores received their introductions to Bryan Adams life early as cheerleaders, band, and majorettes provided enthusiasm and spirit on Sophomore Day.

Summer conferences, workshops, and practices helped pave the way for the 1970-71 school year. For the first time in history, the Dallas School District began school August 25.

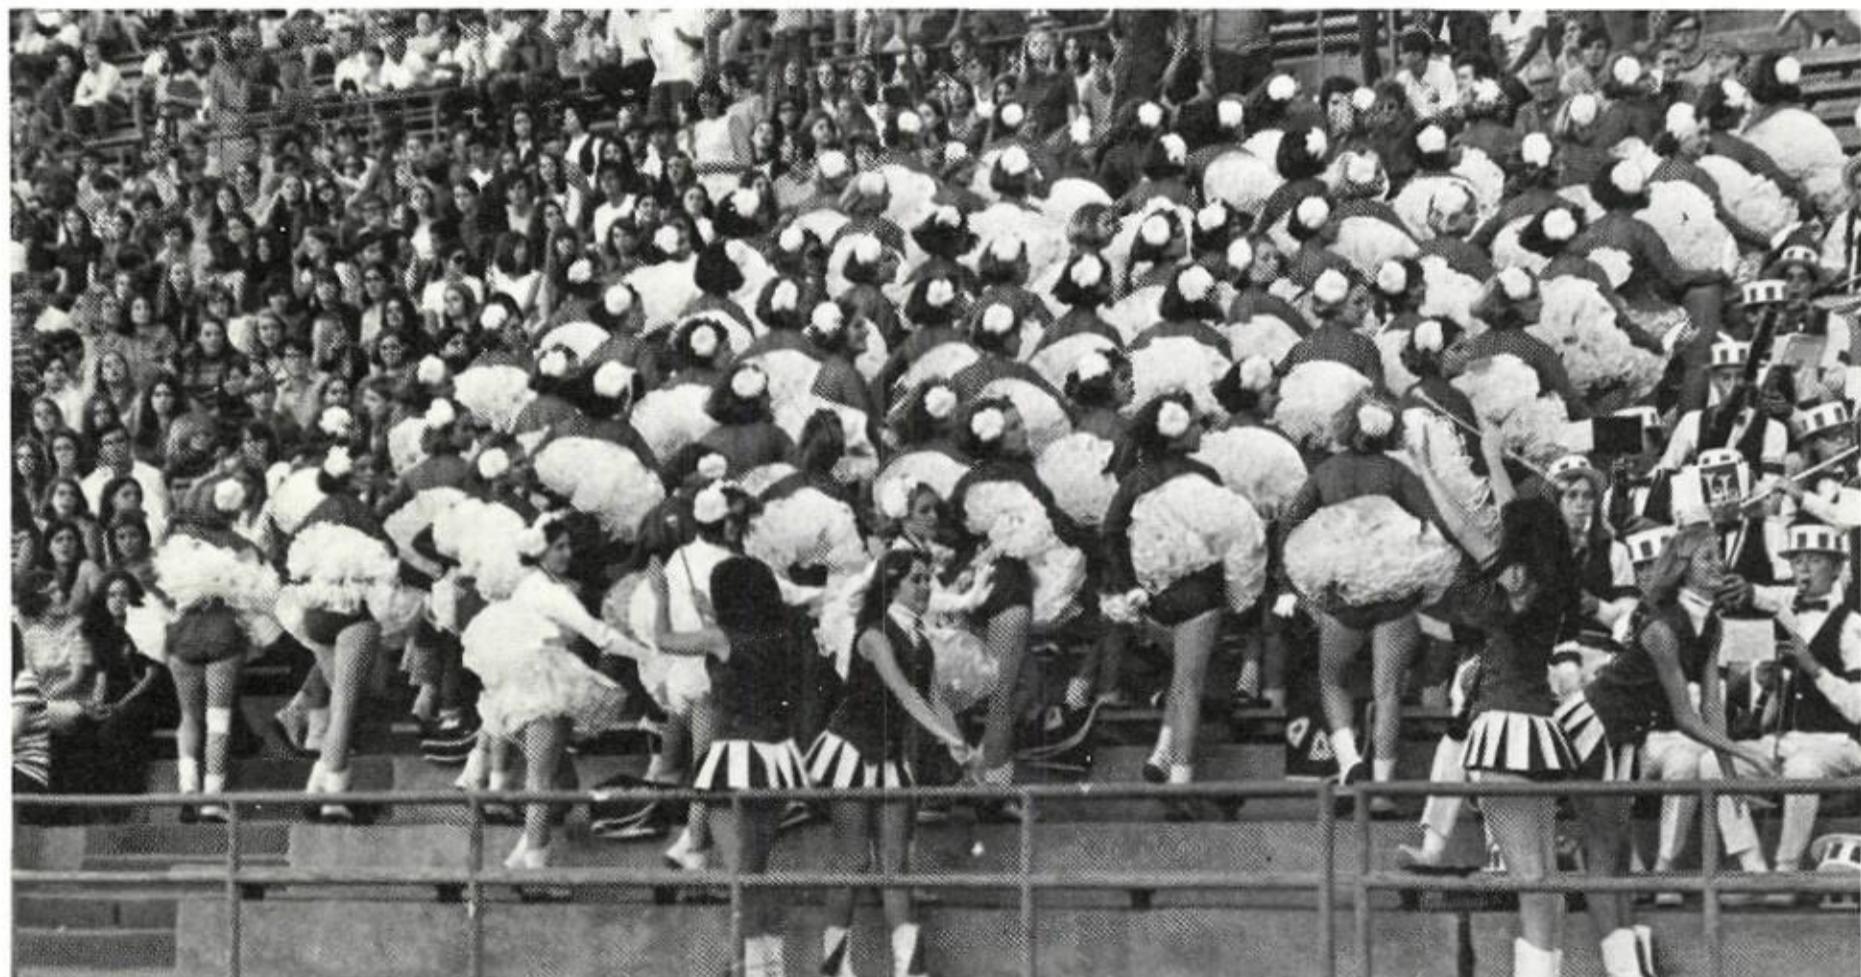

Peaceful hallways soon turned into traffic jams as schoolmates vigorously struggled to their next class. Sly tardy students begged their teachers to give them one more chance, for a new school year had begun.

Cougar's Bus Trip Highlighted by Victory

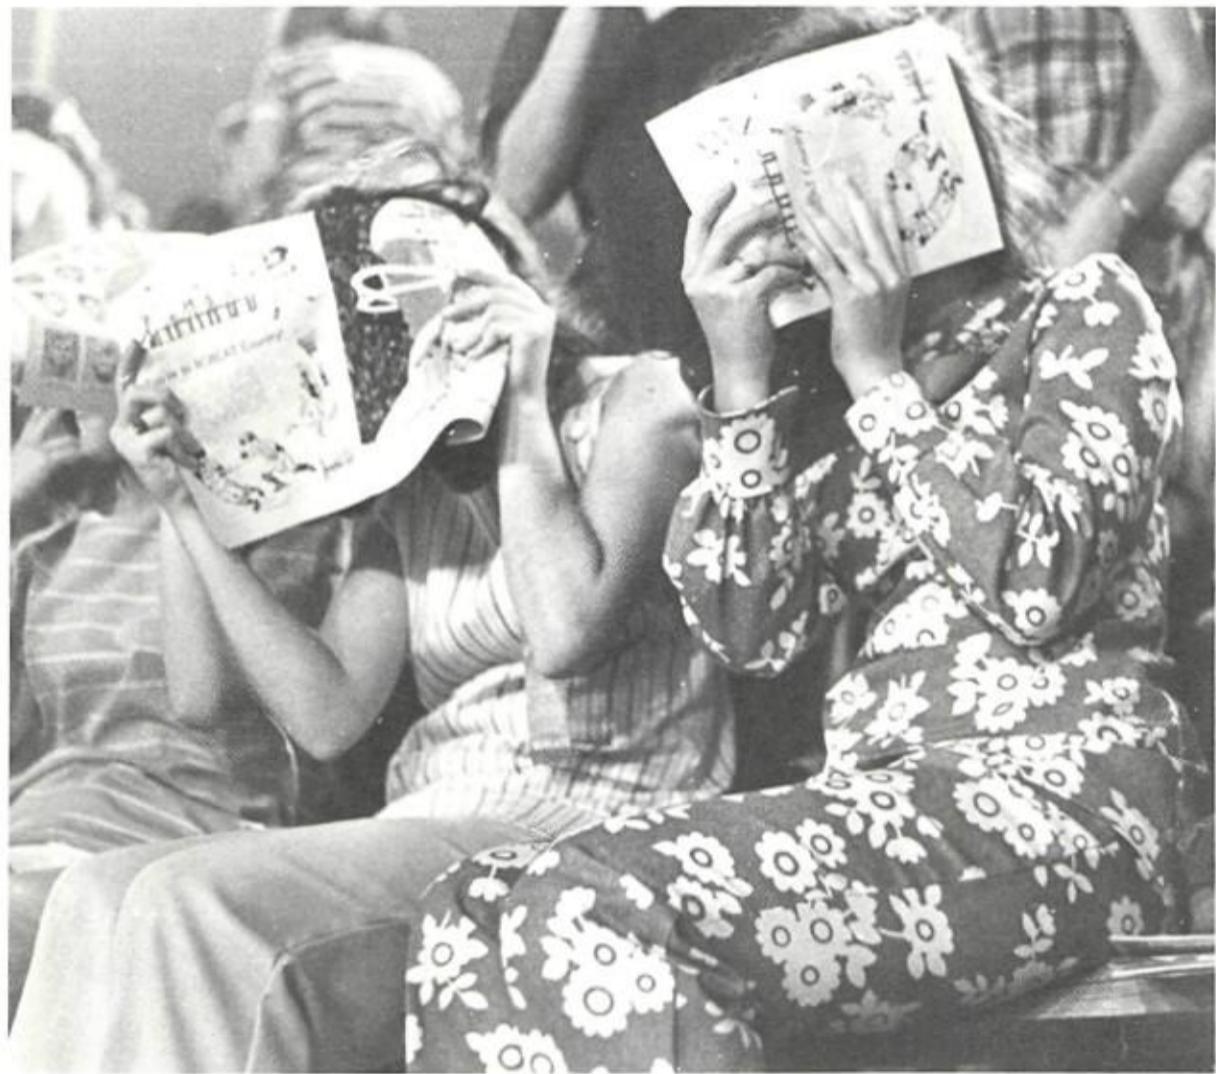

Anticipation filled Bryan Adams' students and faculty as more than ten buses began the annual journey to San Angelo at noon Saturday, September 12.

After a four hour ride topped by dinner at Luby's, Cougar fans rolled to San Angelo's Central High Stadium where the victorious clash with the Bobcats began. Soon after kickoff, dust blinded, the Cougars and a mad throng of contact-wearers headed for shelter. At half-time the band, majorettes and Belles fought dust and wind in their quality performance.

Although fans' throats were dusty and dry, spirited sounds echoed from the stands until the Cougars made their first touchdown. Spirit then doubled as the Cougars proved victorious by a narrow, but glorious, one-point margin over the Bobcats. As the final gun sounded, exuberant fans surged onto the field to congratulate the Cougars and join them in a final prayer.

Texas highways were alive with singing and shouting as the Dallas buses headed homeward. Arriving at 4:00 a.m. Sunday, busloads of sleepy, but proud Cougar fans swarmed across Bryan Adams' lawn on their way home.

Assemblies Promote Spirit

"Go, go, get 'em, get 'em, um-ah! Go! Go!" Such cheers of excitement and expectation filled the auditorium as the pep assemblies progressed throughout the year. Skits performed by the cheerleaders predicted the upcoming victories. The year started out with the marriage of Sally Spirit and Freddie Football (Paul Korkames and Pam Hall respectively.) The "offspring" of this marriage brought the mighty Cougars a year of high-pitched and thrilling pep assemblies.

The Belles and the majorettes added "that extra touch" to the assemblies with their routines. The Spirits also did hand routines wearing their new green and white gloves. Pep talks were given by members of the football team to spur the team on to victory.

As all assemblies ended, the student body joined in with the cheerleaders with the traditional yell of "Two Bits" and the singing of the Alma Mater.

Excitement of fall activities reached a peak as Homecoming Day arrived. School halls decorated in traditional colors boosted the team to another win. After a victorious game against W. T. White, Cougars and former graduates returned to the school gymnasium for the dance. "The Box" provided music, while "Uranus" performed the light show.

Highlight of the evening occurred at the climax of the dance. A tense crowd awaited the announcement of Andy Horner declaring Vicki Sparks Homecoming Queen for 1970. The other finalists included Anne Mounts, Pam Hall, Sandra Myrick, and Norma Safford.

Moods Influence the Bryan Adams Student

Two eyes by themselves could have been tear spouts; a mouth, just a food-chomper. But, with a mind and spirit behind them, these elements of a face become expressions of a mood.

Screaming mouths and fighting eyes combined to cheer football teams to victory. Dreamy eyes and shy grins masked hopes for the future. However, moods transferred from faces to words in the halls and community. School pride was lettered into publicity posters and signs.

For brief moments in time, moods reflected students at BA, and students reflected the variety of ideas and emotions of today.

Preparation and Confusion Characterize NFL Tournament

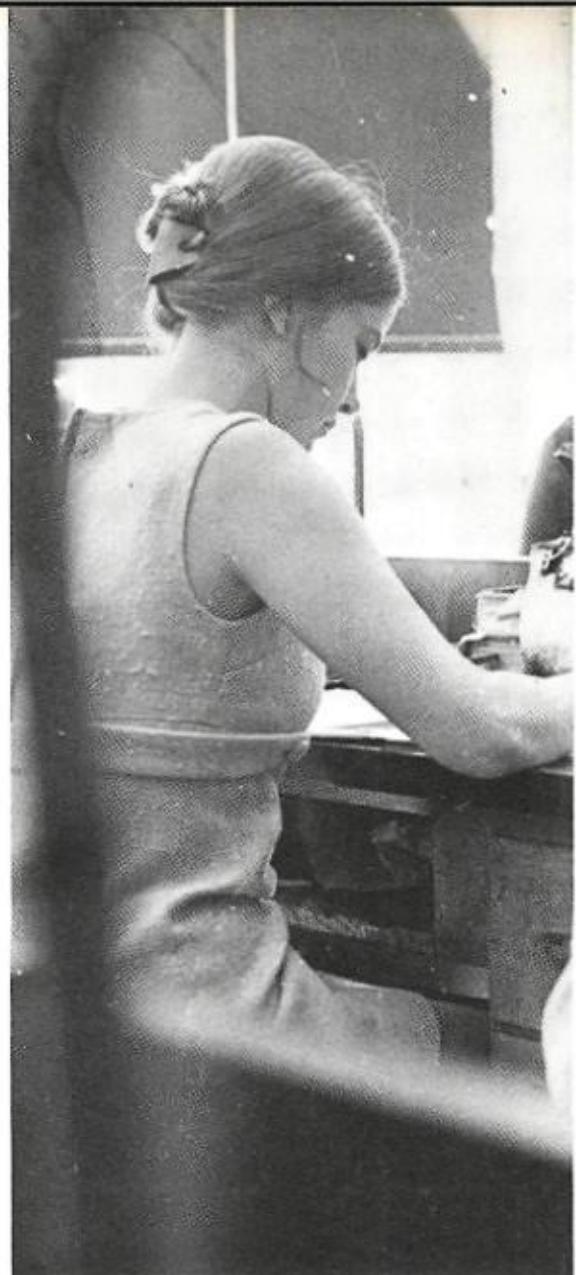

Buses lined up outside the school and new faces seen in the halls were the first signs that the annual Bryan Adams Invitational Speech Tournament had begun. As usual, the National Forensic League sponsored the tournament. Over 1,000 students from schools in Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana participated in the 1971 tournament on February 5 and 6.

During the afternoon, classes listened to speeches, debates, oratories, and interpretations, while their teachers judged. Qualified parents of many students were also asked to judge.

Trophies given to individual winners were sponsored by the White Rock Kiwanis Club. King High School from Corpus Christi won Sweepstakes by collecting the most points.

Interest and Understanding Broaden Youth's Awareness

"Our chief want in life is to find someone who will help us find ourselves." Understanding and communications at Bryan Adams moved students closer to the goal of the self-awareness that Emerson described. Students looked to friends for understanding, and teachers and students shared common interests. Communication with counselors and principals developed. Bryan Adams students, as members of today's youth, displayed an attitude of involvement that led to better understanding between the generations, the sexes, and the political opposites. Awareness of the environment at school led to understanding of people with contrasting ideas, and listening and feeling among individuals at BA created a unity in the school.

Childhood Eagerness Returns in Undying Spirit of Youth

Smiling faces, glowing eyes, and laughing voices: these were the echoes of childhood that emerged from Bryan Adams youth. As students entered new contests and challenges, rays of hopefulness and enthusiasm for new developments radiated from them, and excitement encompassed their actions.

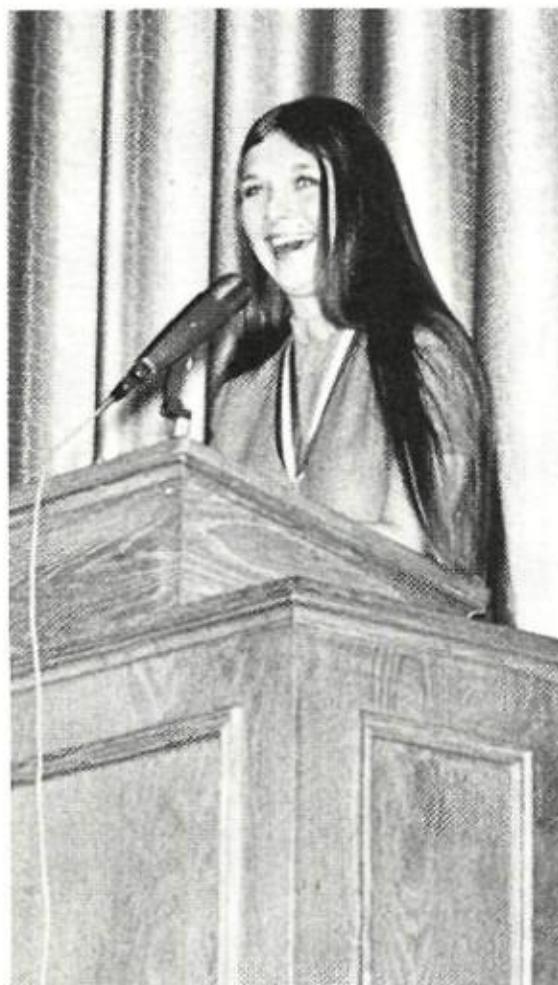

Meeting challenges with anticipation, students exhibited an undying vivacity that carried them closer to an understanding of the value of life. Youth lived and enjoyed the present, while their eyes looked into the future with optimism.

An acceptance of new ideas and an excitement for new thoughts characterized the spirit of youth. In the words of Pintuaro, "Kids aren't scared of new ideas. They'll swing at anything you've got. But the best part is you. Catch a fly. You're up."

Responsibility Results From Involvement

The community, the country, and even the universe offered positions of involvement to Bryan Adams students. As they lived each day, students found opportunities to change, understand, and communicate with the world. These students searched their surroundings for guidance — guidance to help not only themselves but also their community.

Through working experiences students were better able to understand what would be expected of them in later life. Personal contact with police increased their respect for laws which govern society. Miss Teenage America proved by her example that if the younger generation spoke their mind the world would listen. Just as space is infinite, the students learned that involvement can be limitless.

Wherever the community looked, they found Bryan Adams students involved. Without involvement, the students would have gained neither pride, responsibility, nor a feeling of accomplishment.

ORGANIZATIONS

"it is not enough to be busy; so are the ants. the question is: what are we busy about?"

— Thoreau

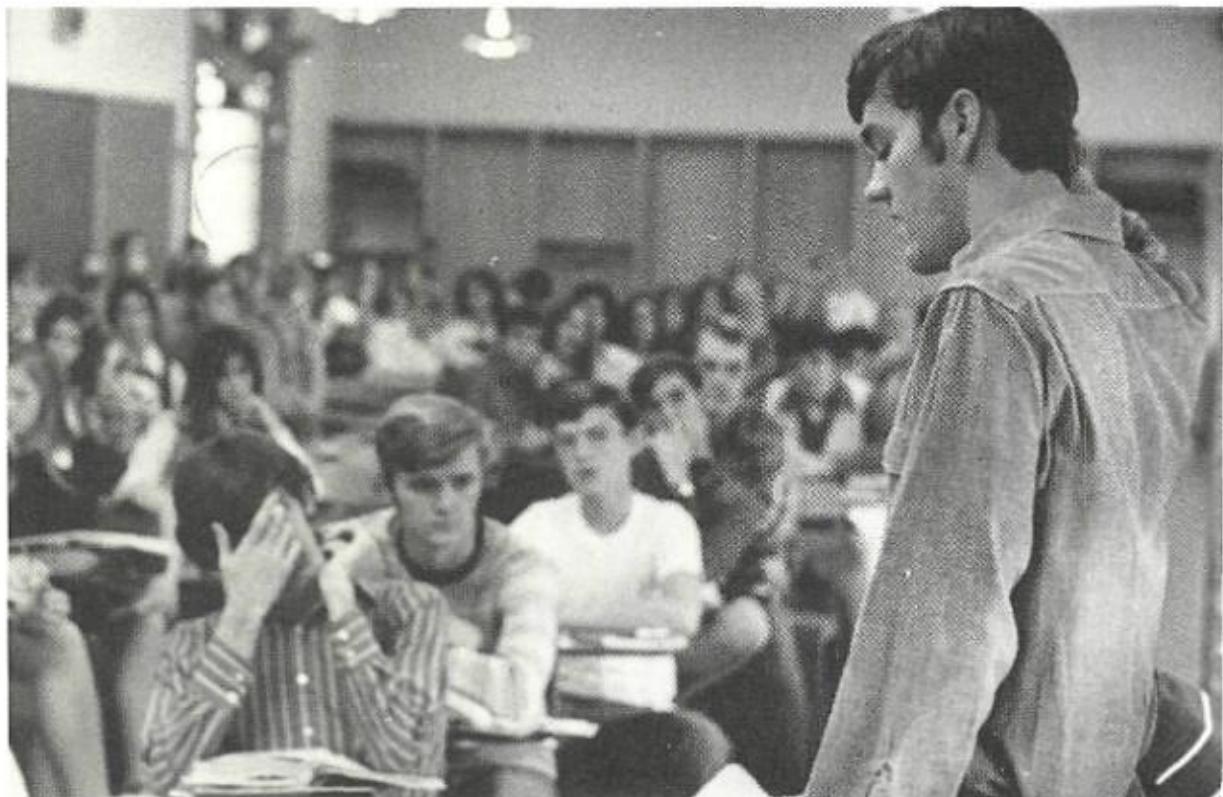

Student Body Benefits From New Leadership and Activity

"Student Council who?" This question once preceded every conversation concerning that organization. However, under the leadership of President Andy Horner and the sponsorship of Mr. Jerry Clay, the 1970-71 Student Council made itself known!

Action replaced token accomplishments during the year. A music system was installed in the lunchroom as one of the club's projects. Restructuring of the club led to a series of smaller groups such as the dance, publicity, projects, newsletter, and bulletin board committees. Progress made by the clean-up committee removed irritating filth from the school. Student directories were compiled and printed earlier than in previous years by members of the council. For the first time in the organization's history, definite profits were collected from the Homecoming Dance.

Tabulation of the represented homerooms at council meetings explained the new action; participation in the club climbed by over 75%. By the end of the year, students and faculty asked, "The Student Council, again?"

Buddy System Familiarizes New Students With School

Following the success of last year's tutoring program, the current National Honor Society continued the project with new improvements. Those students requiring additional instruction were placed under the guidance of a tutor during one study hall period.

This individual method of instruction served as a basis for the instigation of a new project, the "Buddy System." Students new to Bryan Adams were contacted by members of the Honor Society during the first weeks of school. Familiarization with the building, students, and the surrounding area became the main objectives as each member revealed the activities of Cougar Land to his or her buddy.

The issuing of parking stickers to permit easier classification of cars and the hosting of College Night also brought long hours of work to members of the Honor Society.

Tournament Victories Bring Success to School Chapter

Hard rock to semi-classical characterized the sound of the annual N.F.L. Talent Show, T.R.A.S.H. The fund raising project, presented during two school assemblies and a night performance, netted profits essential to the N.F.L. Proceeds from the show went toward out of town speech tournaments production and routine expenditures of the club.

Throughout the state of Texas, as well as a greater portion of the United States, Bryan Adams was well represented in many debate and speech tournaments. Superior performances by members of the different divisions within the club brought numerous awards and trophies to the B.A. chapter.

Early spring brought contestants, both in and out of state, to the annual tournament held here and sponsored by the National Forensic League.

Curtain Opens on Variety Theater Shows

QUESTION: What magic screen opens and closes with applause? ANSWER: The curtains of the Cothurnus Club's 1970-71 production of Variety Theater. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Grayce Clay and Mrs. Ann Nieto, the drama club produced three one-act plays along with other activities.

The Taming of the Shrew, Boob Tube, and Merton of the Movies comprised this year's plays for Variety Theater. Each production offered the audience something different. Shakespeare's Shrew received a new setting with the action of the play set in the late nineteenth century. A satire on all phases of American life evolved from the modern production of Boob Tube. Finally, the early movie characters were never so alive as in the play Merton of the Movies.

Active participation in club productions led to membership in the Thespian Society, an honorary drama society. Another major concern of the club involved matinees of children's stories on Saturday afternoons.

Victory Roars Throughout Halls of Green and White

Excitement soared with each increasing victory, and the sounds of triumph roared throughout Cougar Land. Pep assemblies resounded with volume as the cheerleaders released the spirit through cheers and chants, both traditional and new.

Clever skits, featuring such renowned characters as Charlie Brown, Lucy, Linus, and the Great Pumpkin, began each assembly. During the skit, the opposing team was portrayed as a powerful threat to victory, but fell quickly, vanquished under the might of the Cougar mascot.

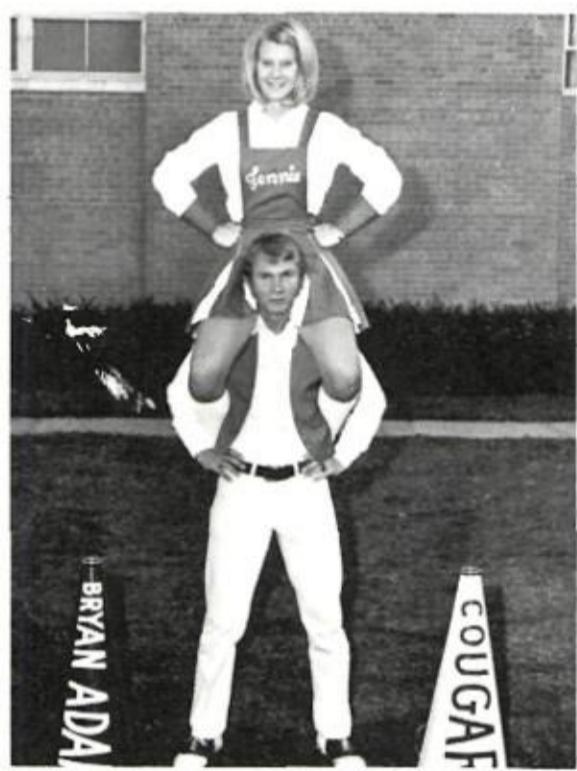

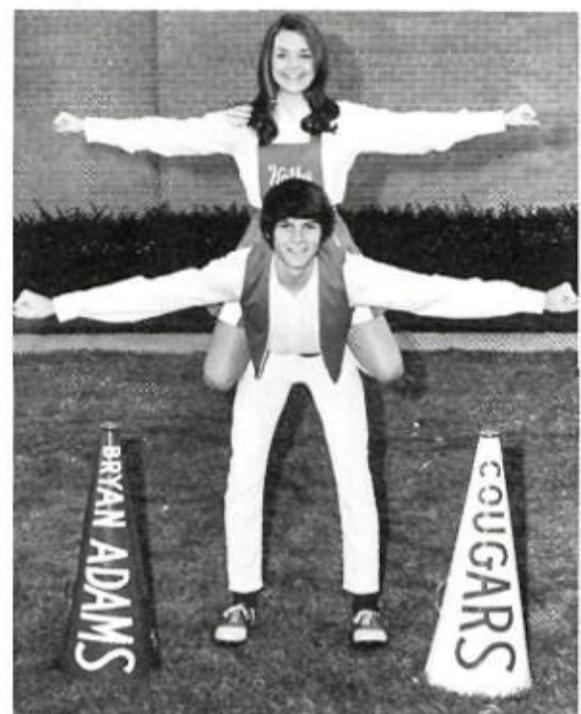

While attending cheerleading camp at SMU, BA placed in several divisions, acquiring a majority of points to bring home the coveted "Spirit Stick." The very essence of this award, spirit, captivated every friend and foe who walked among the land of the mighty Cougar.

Voices Filled With Spirit Penetrate Cougar Territory

Traditions both old and new lent excitement to the land of the mighty Cougar. Amid these many traditions, one of the oldest, the B.A. Spirits, remained outstanding. In keeping with high attendance, club enrollment reached three hundred. During each assembly and every game, the club assembled, filling numerous rows of stadium bleachers or auditorium seats.

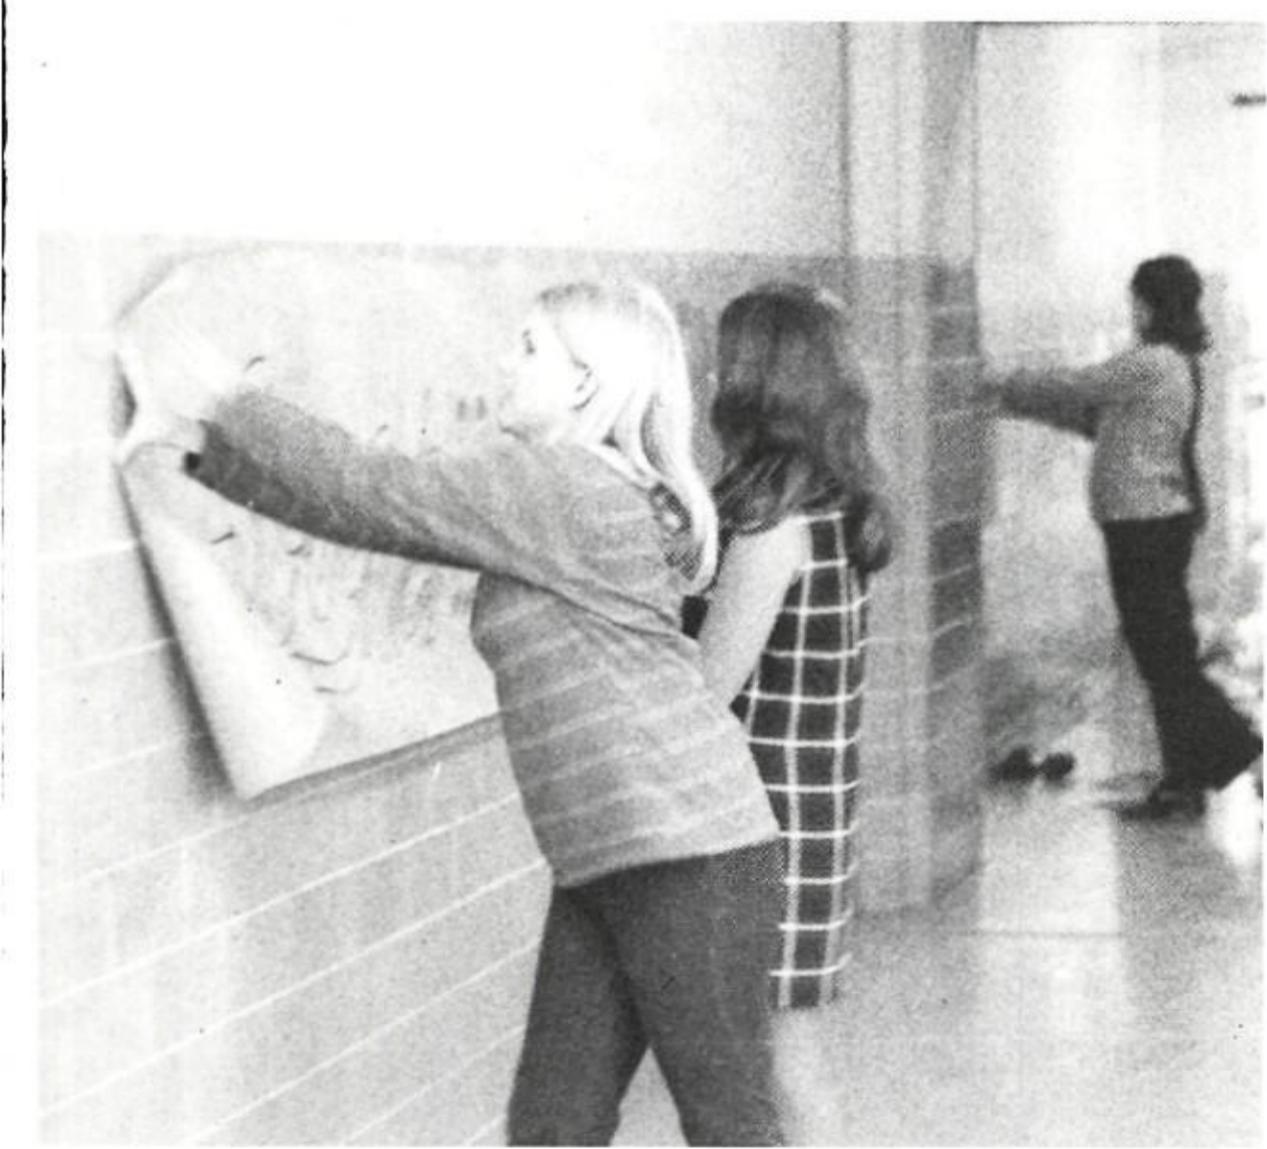

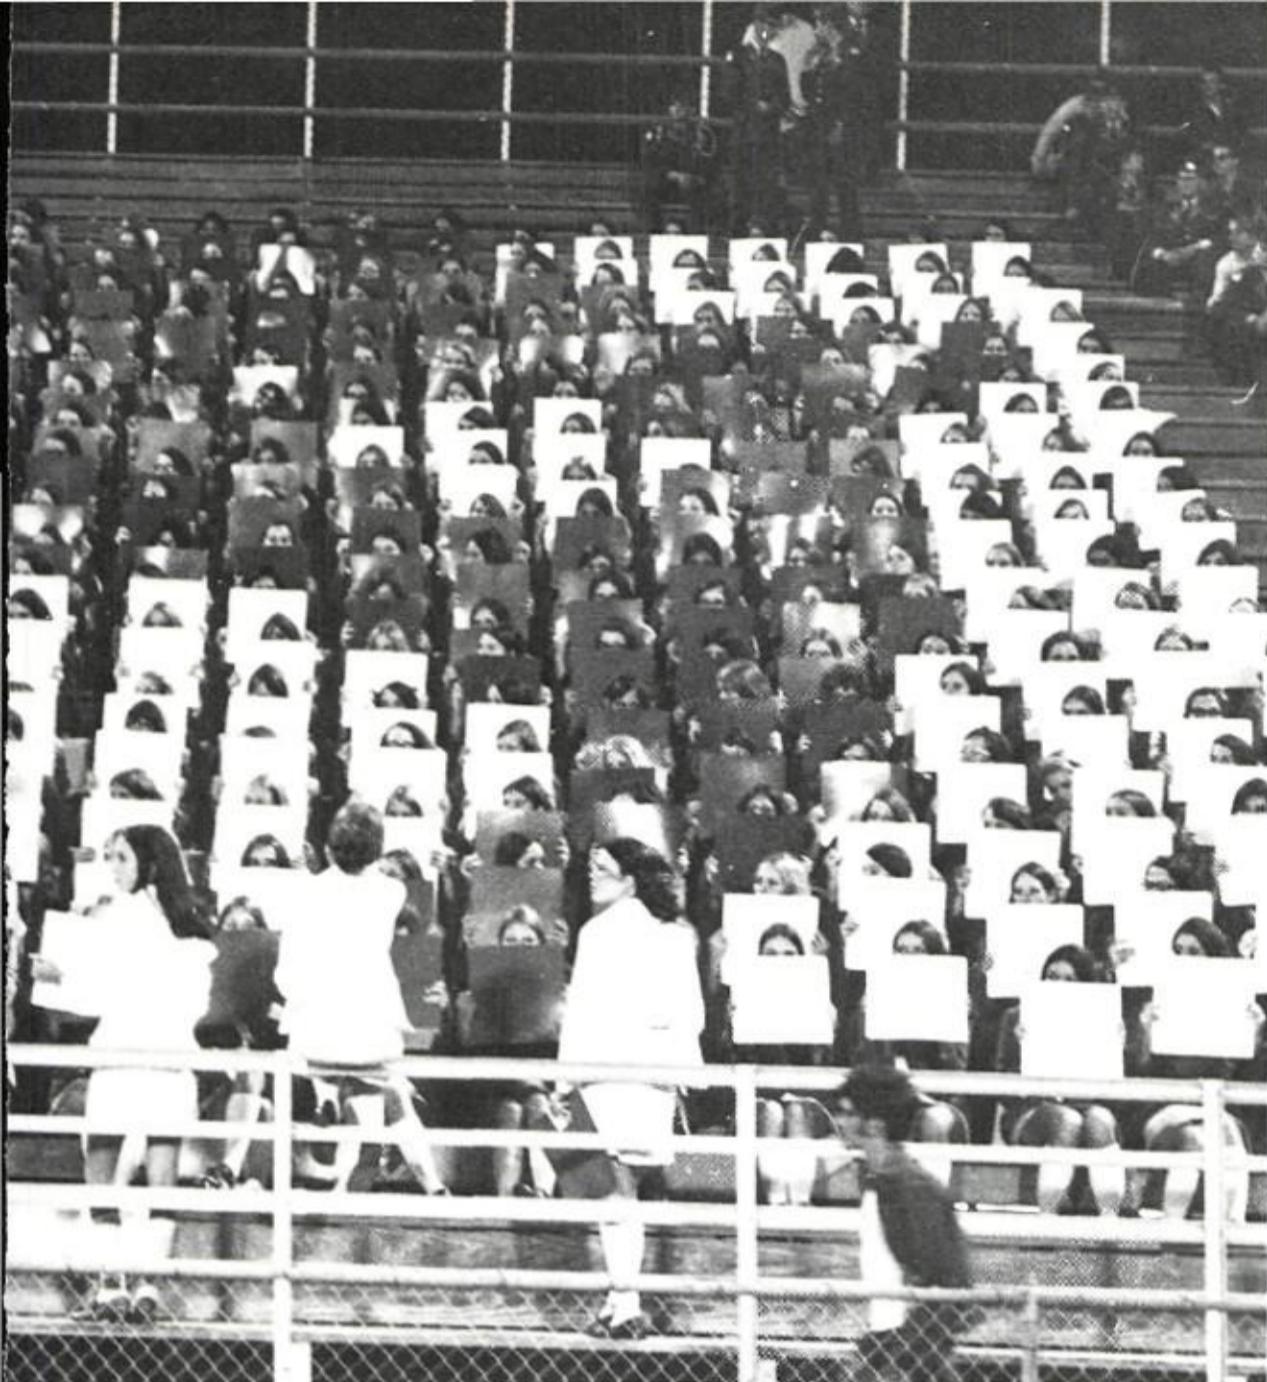

Hand routines and card tricks were perfected to a unique degree of performance. In addition to their presence at games, evidence of their spirit prevailed on game days. The halls of BA became colorfully transformed amid realms of green and white streamers, posters, and door decorations.

As a prerequisite for eligibility as cheerleader, Cougar mascot, or Belle, the Spirits functioned with complete organization. Though rules and regulations formed a basis, spirit was never bound by such stipulations.

Sharpness Remains the Goal of BA Belles Through Year

Made up of seventy-two girls, the "Pride of White Rock," the BA Belles, showed their sparkle from the Astrodome to Forrester Field. Led by Captain Karen Scoggins, Co-captain Barbara Reid, and Lieutenant Bettye Ash, each girl contributed to an organized spirit behind the fighting Cougar teams.

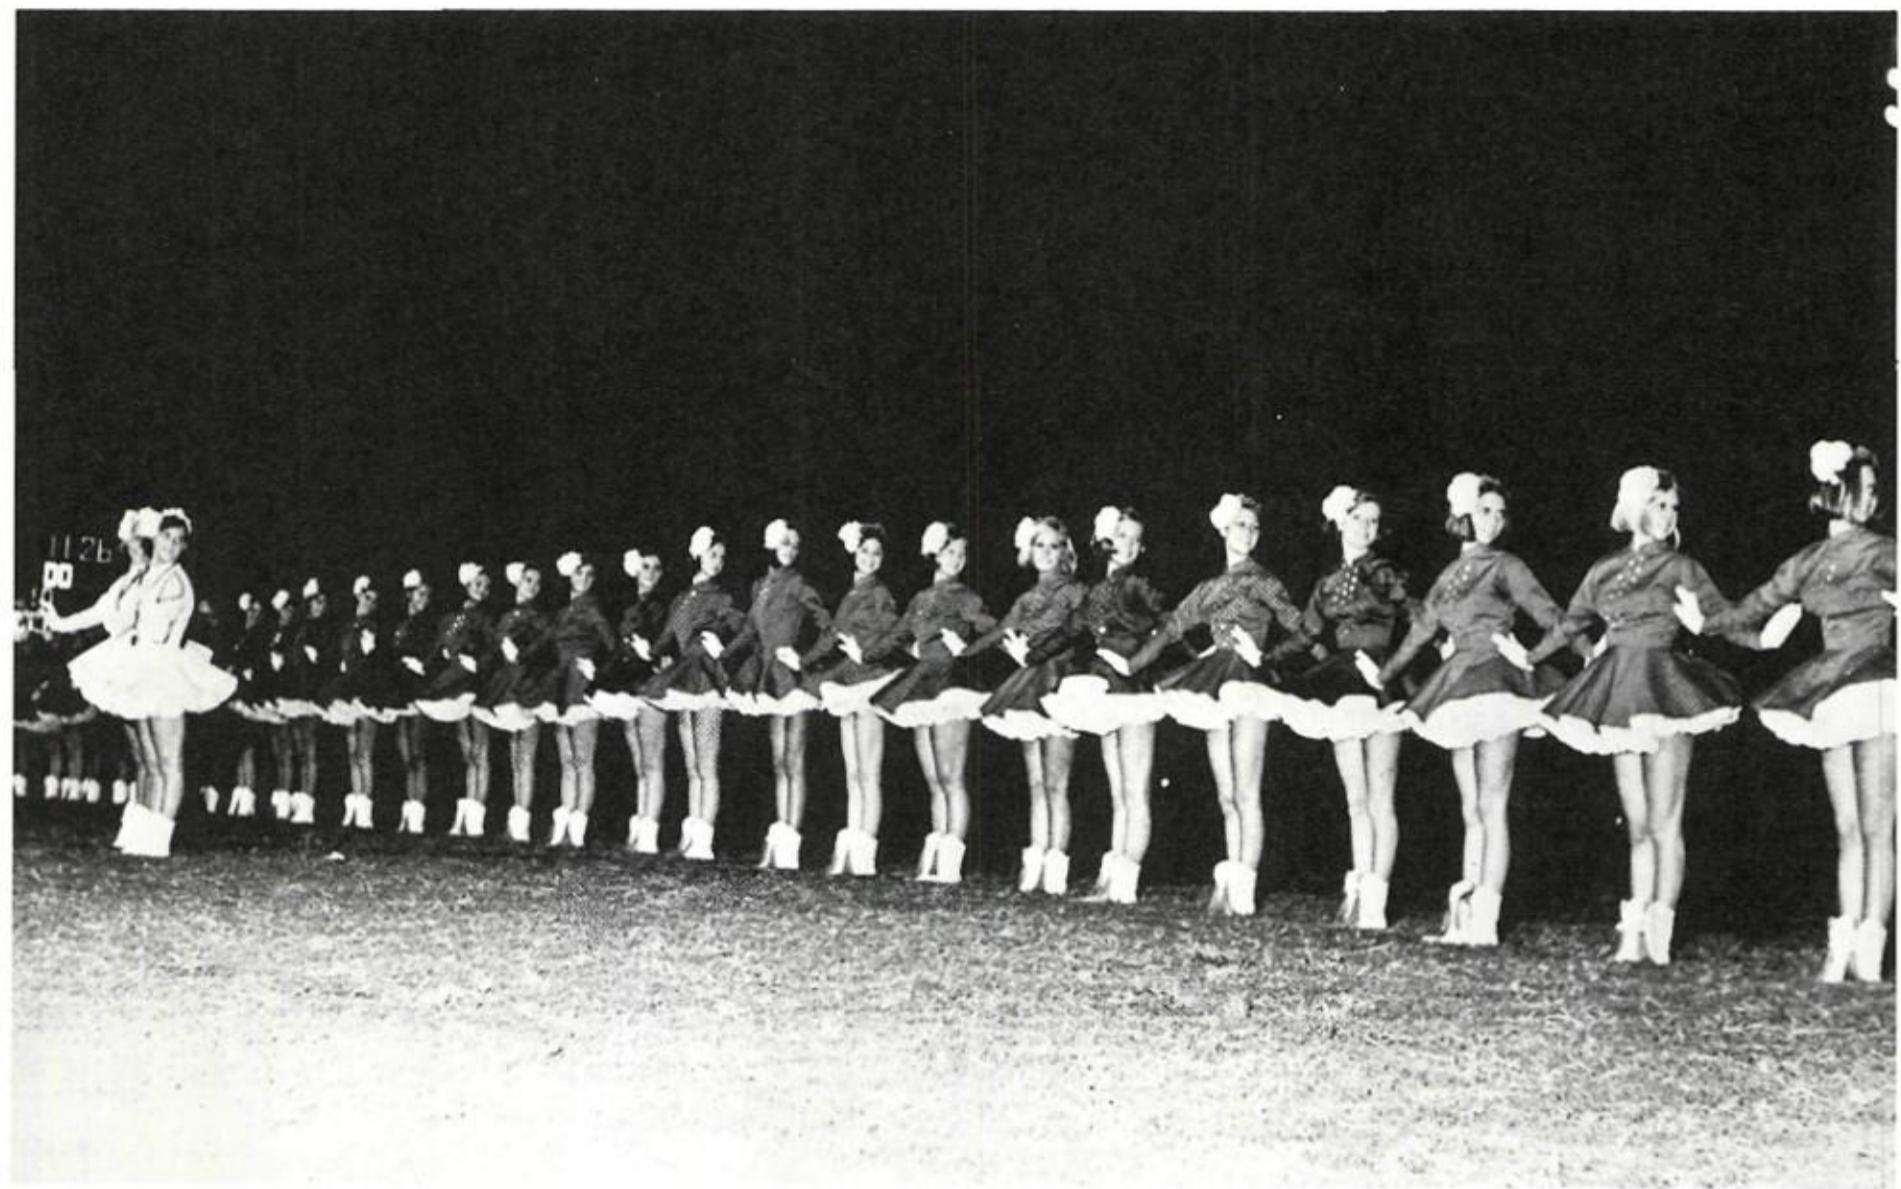

In addition to performing in football halftime shows with routines, smiles, and the traditional BA Kick, Belles marched in the Thanksgiving Day Parade and the State Fair Opening Day Parade. Belles brought their year to a close in May at the annual Green and White game as they marched onto the field in traditional V-formation to the tune of "March Grandioso."

Belles agreed that three hours of ironing petticoats and ten hours of grueling practice a week equalled the pride they felt after a perfect halftime performance.

Big Brass Sound Spotlights Dixieland Rhythmn and Spirit

Vibrancy key-noted the performance of the 1970-71 Band. It began with the introduction of the new director Mr. Bill Lively. As his name indicates, Mr. Lively instilled new life and excitement in the 150 member group. A "Big Brass Sound" replaced the past styles. New Dixieland uniforms completed the image of Southern jazz.

Transition to this new image meant five hour practices which opened August 3. Student elected leaders of the group included Drum Major David Powers and Assistant Drum Major David Brochu. When the band arrived at San Angelo, David Powers forlornly discovered that he had left his complete uniform in Dallas, so the surprised David Brochu first experienced the responsibility of the BA Drum Major as he led the group onto the field.

Although one of the main activities was to perform at BA football games, the band also spread "the sound" at college games, professional football games, and parades. They also produced a record of their new "big" sound.

Twirling Abilities Steal Audience's Heart

Happiness for eight girls at Bryan Adams included catching cold steel on wintry mornings. Regardless of the weather, the 1970-71 BA Majorettes began practicing at 7 a.m. during the football season. Casey Chandler, Jackie Hightower, Pattie Juno, Melanie Ladd, Connie Steely, Susan Veal, Sharla Wagener, and Judy Weatherread created and perfected routines on those mornings.

Preceding the half-time performances, however, were summer days of learning. Through participation at the Kilgore Junior College Twirling Camp, the majorettes placed first in a military ensemble. Several of the group taught twirling lessons in the Dallas area during the year.

Bryan Adams shared the majorettes with the Dallas Cowboys in the Astrodome, the Fair Park Mobil Stage, and the opening of the State Fair. Under the sponsorship of Mr. William Lively, the majorettes presented coordinated and vitalized routines for expanded audiences.

Archery Club Takes Aim at Bull's Eye of Accuracy

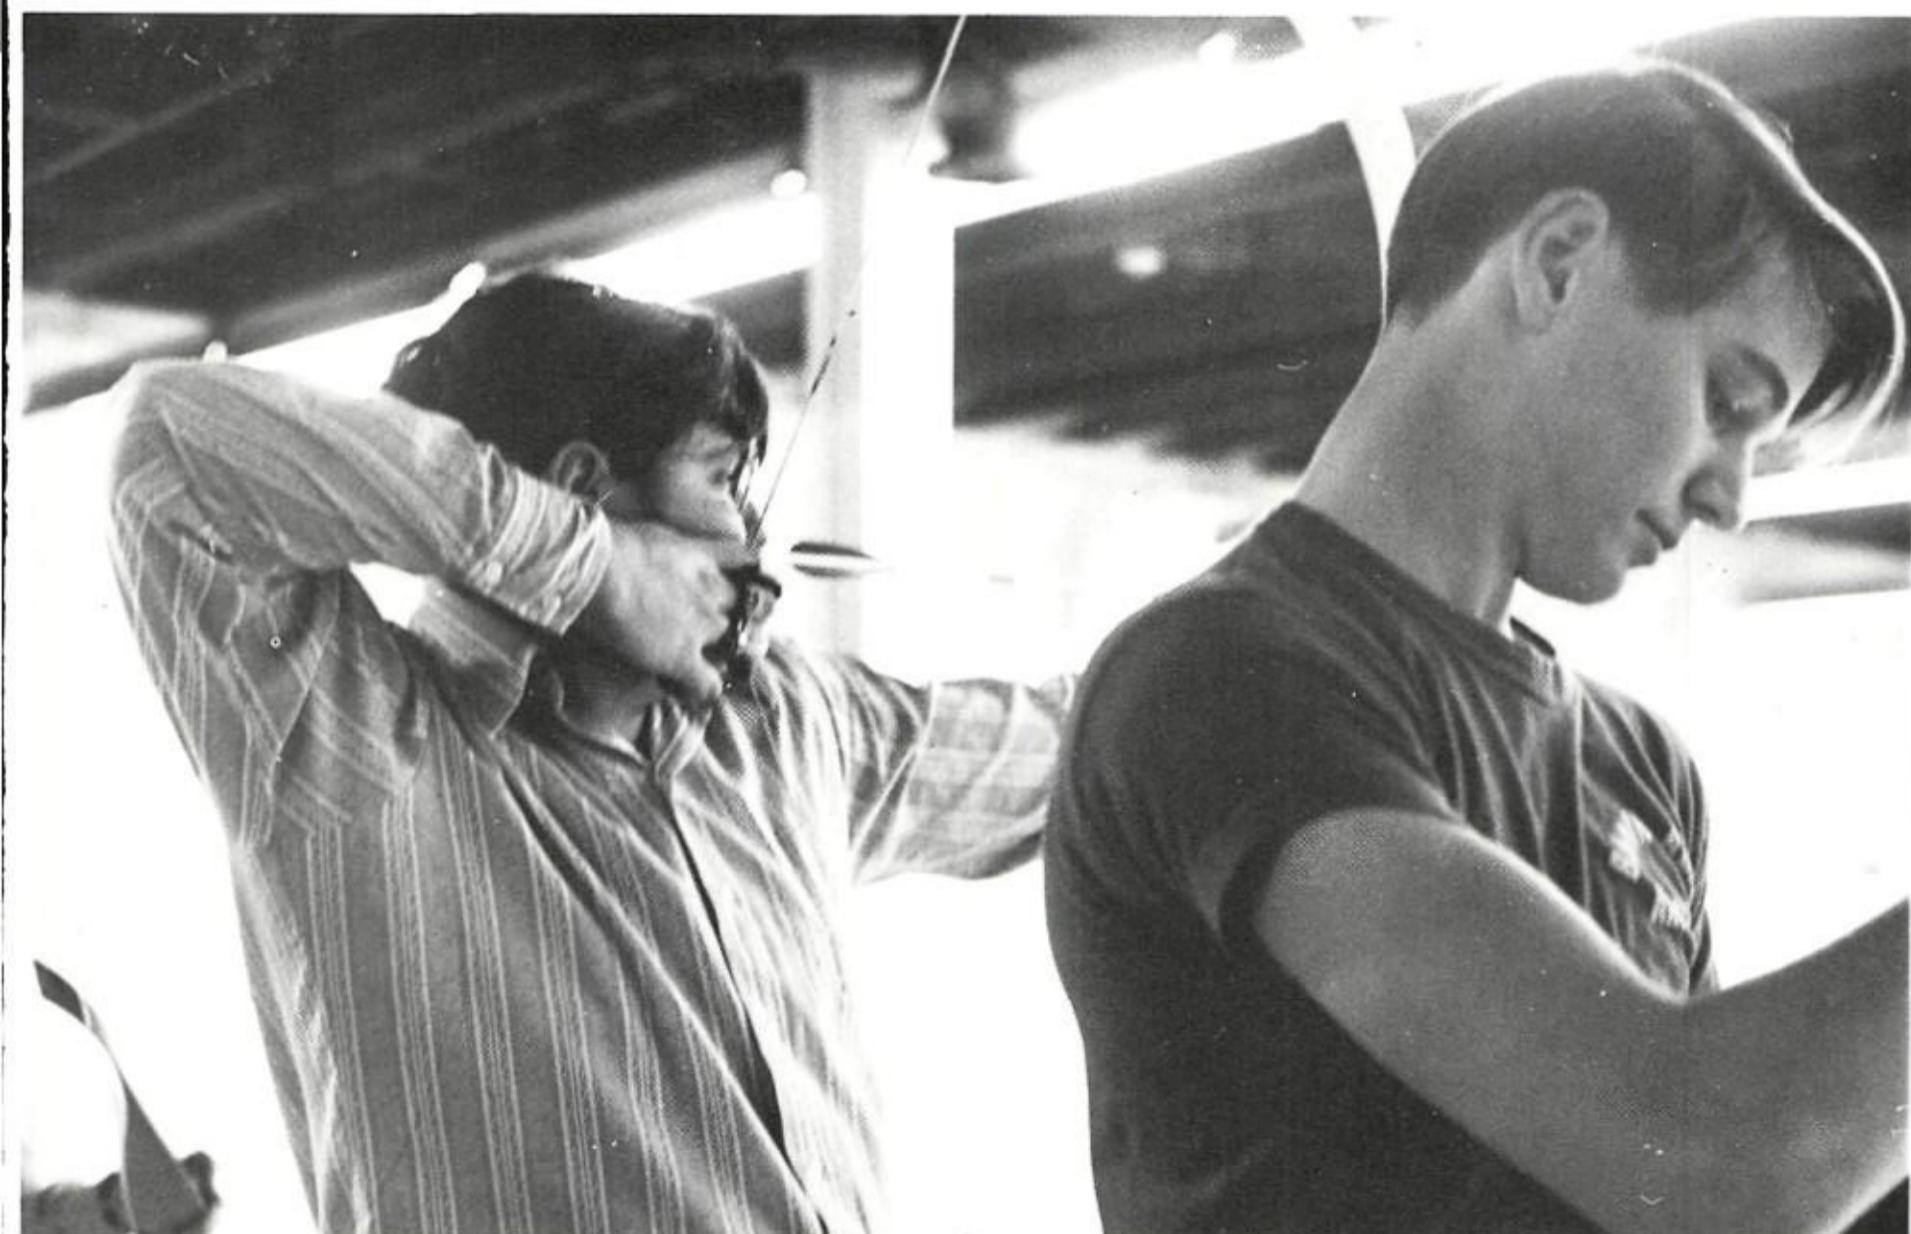

Although they bet on a "long shot" each week, gambling played no part in the game for the members of the Archery Club. With a bull's eye for accuracy, President Sandy Hill and sponsor Mr. Alan Goldstein frequently "shot the breeze."

Practices held at the Lamplighter Archery Club developed and improved skills for old and new members. Competitions for individual members produced honors. Beverly Cole, Brenda Cole, and Sandy Hill finished first, third, and fourth in state-wide contests. Some of the club's bowmen participated in exhibitions held at Market Hall.

Club members recognized the dangers of their equipment through instruction on its proper use. However, Sandy Hill often employed the bow and arrow as a teaching aid when members evoked her anger.

Snowflakes and Skaters Fall in Winter Wonderland

With somewhat confused theories on the art of ice skating, members slipped and tumbled through a year of riotous fun at the ice arena in Fair Park. Twice monthly, would-be skaters journeyed downtown for an hour or so on the ice (sometimes literally on the ice.)

While not an instruction club, the basic skills involved in skating were offered to interested members. Skating instructors at the arena provided assistance to new skaters. Both challenging and fun, the club encouraged an atmosphere of good fellowship and an interest in a sport rare to students of BA.

Community Service Initiates Activities of Y-Teen Year

Since Halloween developed as a holiday for saints, the 1970-71 Y-Teens took a party to the smallest saints in the area, the children of Angel's, Inc. Mentally retarded children from that school enjoyed an evening of tricks and treats provided by the BA organization.

However, parties constituted only a small part of the club's activities for the year. By meeting on the first, third, and fifth Thursday of each month, the girls planned many other projects. One program designed to help the members of the club was the Delegates Mini-Conference in February. Y-Teens from different schools gathered to discuss the Christian movement, environment, and race relations.

President Sally Wilchester and sponsor Mrs. Carolyn Nail provided the leadership for the twenty-one member club.

Key Club Aids Community by Distribution of Directories

In the fall of the school year, the buildings and grounds of Angels, Incorporated received a massive cleaning and reorganization by members of the Key Club. This service has become an annual activity.

Also during the past year, members assisted the White Rock area in the distribution of telephone books in the communities surrounding Bryan Adams. At Christmas, gifts were collected, wrapped, and presented to various hospitals in the Dallas area.

Club activities strove toward the promotion of fellowship within the school as well as in the outlying localities. School spirit was also represented by members of the Key Club.

Choir Members Make Friends Through Their Love of Music

"Don't just stand there. Let's get this show on the road," yelled Mr. Erwin, director, as the 1970-71 Concert Choir began rehearsals for their variety show in November. The program, consisting of new ballads mixed with a little soft shoe and burlesque, triggered a busy year for the choir members.

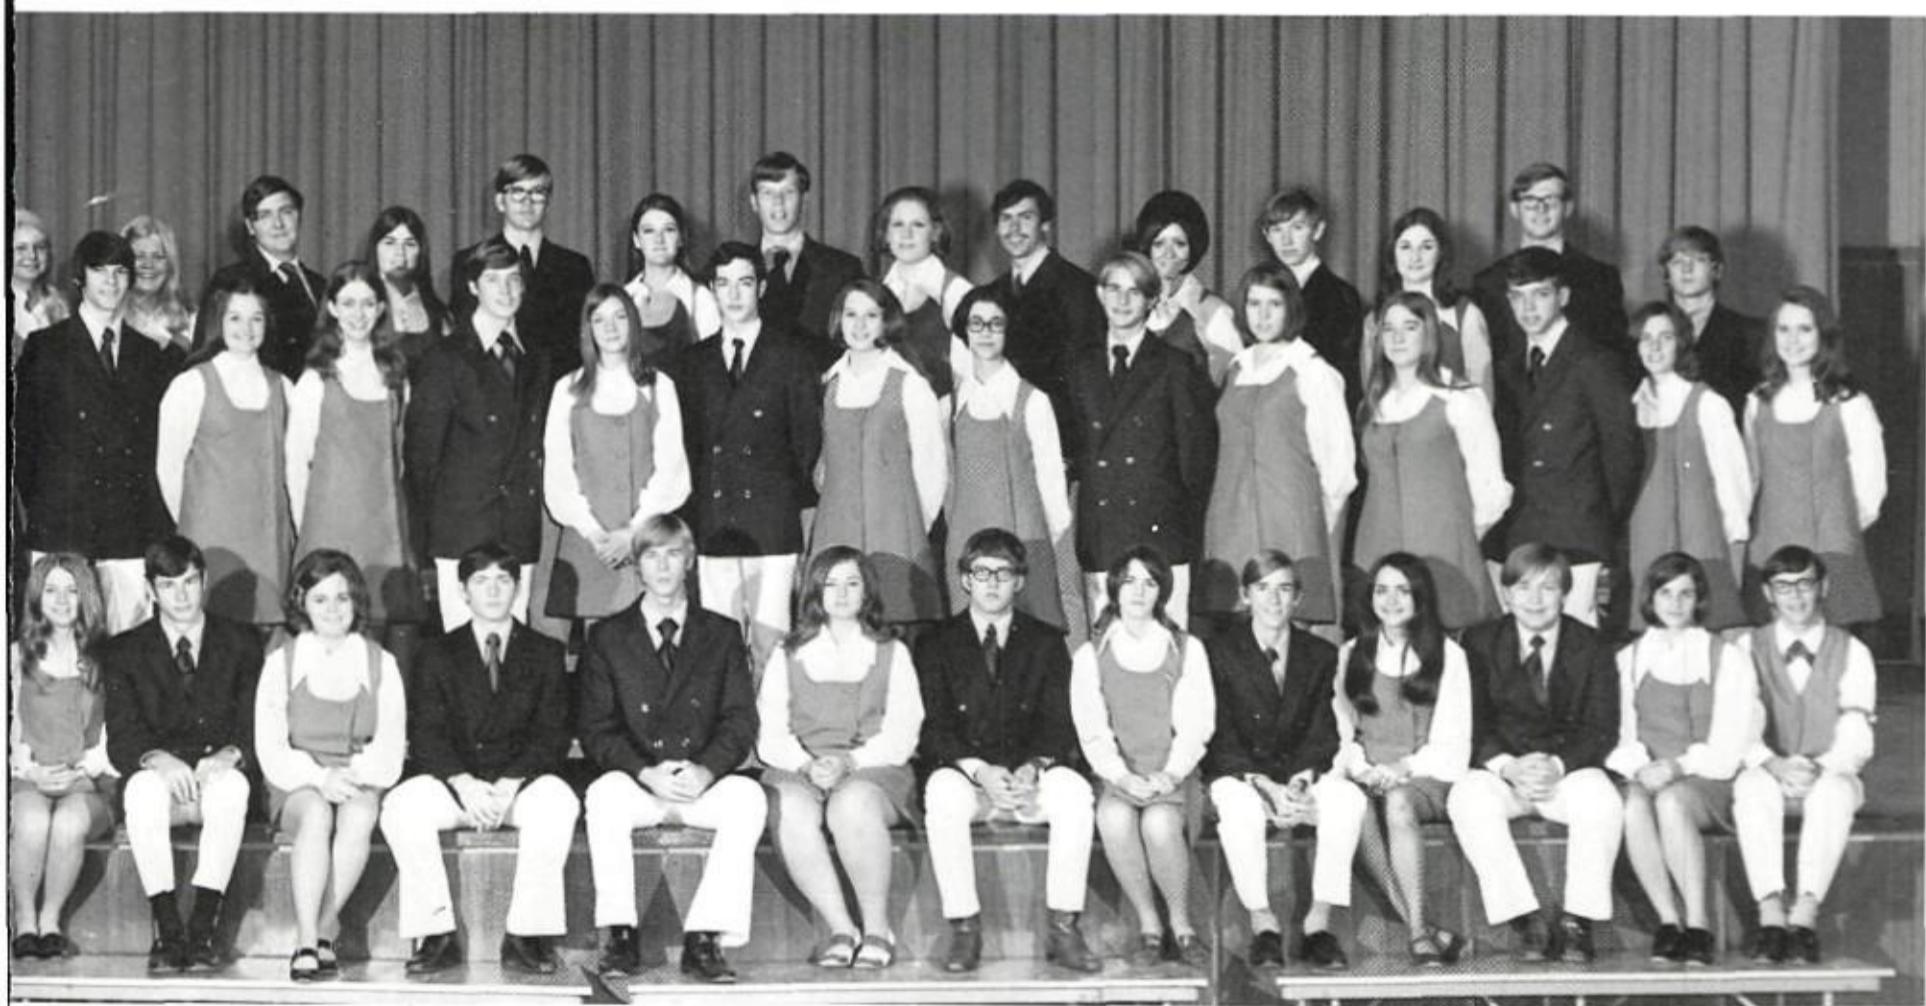

Led by President Paul Low, Vice-president Pam Meek, Secretary Laurie Reames, and Treasurer Pam Orcutt, the choir participated in the VA Hospital Christmas Show and the PTA Christmas Show, in addition to singing for Baccalaureate and Commencement Ceremonies. Members joined with chorus class students to present a musical in the spring. Upholding their motto of "all work and no play is bad for the voice," Concert Choir members met together for parties and field trips, with a common interest in music linking them together.

Work Combined With Talent Leads to "Pops" Performances

National prize winners of 1970, the Symphony Orchestra, began their activities early with a "Pops Concert" in November. Members of the orchestra practiced diligently to be ready for this first big performance. The show led to many other concerts and a musical in the spring.

Another important phase of orchestra life showed the talents of the individuals as well as the group. Solo and Ensemble Contest, the City Orchestra Contest, the Dal-Hi Symphony, and the Regional and State Orchestra honored many members of the group. Winners combined hard work with a love for music to bring home the honors.

Outdoor Landscapes Provide Settings for Art-in-Action

Some blots, dabs, and a lot of feeling created inspired works by the 1970-71 Art-In-Action Club. However, under the sponsorship of Miss Nancy Miller, Miss Marilyn Robinson, and Mrs. Janice Cannon, the club combined art and service for the school and community.

President Debbie Baker led the club to new ideas and activities in the art field. Original Christmas stockings filled with hand-made puppets and candy were made for the children of Angels, Inc. In the spring, the club sponsored an art sale. Any student at Bryan Adams could contribute to the sale that was held in the courtyard. Outdoor sketching took place at White Rock Lake; there they found ample subjects for their drawings.

Sacrificed Study Hall Opens World of Books to Council

Long hours of "book stacking," "card checking" teamwork created an efficient Library Council headed by Miss Hattie Fowler and Sammye Cardella. Members sacrificed a daily study hall period to serve on the council as library assistants. Checking books in and out and other duties kept each girl busy.

Besides the regular duties as library assistant, special activities led to more fun and personal satisfaction. An annual tea for teachers began the spring season. Members also entertained Hill and Gaston students who would soon come to BA as prospective members of the council. The Christmas project, taking gifts to the Terrell State Hospital, proved to each council member that "giving was as much fun as receiving," said Sammye Cardella.

“BA Brainpower” Holds Own “Experiment-Ins” on Mondays

Theory and experimentation found avid audiences among the members of the Science Club. All fields of science were discussed at the bi-monthly meetings, varying from organic chemistry to the much discussed issue, the lost continent of Atlantis. Members with unusual methods of research and advanced questions on theory, acquired assistance from guest speakers and teachers.

Field trips brought theory to actuality. Led by President David Winkler, Vice-president Kenneth Stilwell, Secretary Beverly Pendley, and Treasurer Leslie Prater, members of the club toured areas of scientific interest in and around Dallas. The Science Symposium, held in March, culminated a year of activities for the Science Club.

Explanation Follows Thought in Math Club

Two plus two equaled confusion for some students at Bryan Adams, but members of the 1970-71 Math Club considered that just the starting point for a year's activities. President Susan Lamb directed the organization with the help of sponsors Mrs. Lois Crawford and Mr. Joe Rogers.

Bi-monthly meetings alternated between discussions on club business and guest speakers. Math professors spoke to the group from such schools as NTSU, SMU, and the University of Texas at Dallas. In January, the club organized a Math Symposium for the school. The use of G-Computers and other relevant mathematics topics were discussed.

Active participation in the club often led to membership in the national honor math organization Mu Alpha Theta. To gain entrance into this elite society, a student took specified math courses and maintained a high average. Susan Lamb also presided as president of this club.

Students Further Education Through Modern Visual Aids

Visual aid often brought students to a more thorough understanding of class lectures, reading assignments, and research work. The operation and maintenance of films, projectors, and pixmobiles was provided by students of BA.

Girls wishing to learn the necessary details for operation reported to the film room during one of their study halls. The girls became acquainted with the methods of threading projectors and splicing broken film.

In addition to their duties in the film room, projectionists maintained the pixmobile units which were available to classes unable to occupy the film room. They also took charge of the distribution and collection of films. Through their assistance, the efficiency of visual aids was greatly improved.

TOP: Threading the projector brings Becky Latham in close contact with the mechanics of the job.

Modern Times of Old World Intrigue Spanish Students

Old World customs and modern ideas interchanged as club members studied the history of Spanish oriented lands. Under the leadership of President Sally Richardson and sponsor Mrs. Luella Chitwood, interested students acquired a knowledge of these lands and their people.

At several meetings throughout the year, guest speakers related their experiences to the members. A visitor from Argentina, a discussion of Mexico, and a film on Peru occupied but a few of the meetings.

Though the club hosted several speakers, time was also spent on service projects. Proceeds from candy sales were distributed to the Merle Tanner School and Pesos for Braces (an organization to supply leg braces for small children).

With the conclusion of the school year, several representatives were chosen to attend the annual Spanish Convention held in San Antonio.

Living Revival of Dead Language in Latin

"E pluribus unum." Money spoke to the members of one BA organization because they understood its Latin inscriptions. The 1970-71 Latin Club offered its members rewards other than money, however. Directors of the activities included Consuls Carrie Parker and Steve Gist and sponsor Mrs. Virginia Barnes.

Although Caesar never appeared for monthly club meetings, the organization viewed a production of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar. An initiation banquet, Christmas party, and picnics interjected themselves into regular business meetings. The year closed with a final banquet where Roman costumes and skits were the outstanding highlights.

Members of the club attended a state convention in the spring. Contests included translation, grammar, costumes, mythology, and poetry. The results of this convention indicated the variety and educational benefits of membership in the Latin Club.

Der Deutsche Verein Celebrates Christmas

St. Nicholas himself could not have enlivened the German Club Christmas party more. German students danced, played games, and sang carols as they celebrated "Christkind," or the Christ child's birthday, under the direction of Reinhard Zeigler and watchful eye of sponsor Mrs. Annette Johnson.

Proving their interest in many fields, club members held their fall meetings at weekly football games. Their look-alike uniforms of blue jeans and white shirts added spark to their cheers of "Gehen Sie, Jungen, gehen!" — "Go, team, go!"

Carrying their blue jeans with them, members "sold" their way through several money-raising projects to the Texas Association of German Students Convention in San Angelo. Zeigler maintained watch this time, as German students attended lectures and parties and learned more about Germany.

Fun and Service Synonymous for Les Elites

"Parlez-vous français? Sí, hablo español." A lack of proficiency in French did not prohibit membership in the 1970-71 Les Elites. With help of President Carolyn Largent, the French Club combined service and fun with learning the "language of lovers."

Party-time developed on several occasions. A picnic on Flag Pole Hill and a Halloween party highlighted the month of October. For students with brave stomachs, the club held a cheese-tasting party including some exotic French flavors.

However, service found its place during the Christmas season. The club took a party to the pre-school children at the Juliette Fowler Children's Home. Club members provided them with games and entertainment for one evening.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Anne Kuntz and Miss Sue Fincher, the French Club 1970-71 closed the year with traditional activities. The French Symposium in March and a banquet later in the spring ended the year.

Progress in Domestic Talent Remains Goal of FHA Members

The Future Homemakers of America, under the direction of Mrs. Pat Withrow and president Pattie Jolly, organized to promote interest in home economics. The club encouraged girls to develop skills and abilities related to areas of home and community life.

Through a variety of programs, projects, and social events, FHA extended the knowledge and leadership opportunities of the members. During the Christmas holidays, the students made stockings for the residents of Big Town Nursing Home and served punch and homemade cookies. Through the Future Homemakers of America, members learned to face the future with courage and high hopes. Attaining a talent in domestic ability remained the goal of each FHA member.

Future Teachers Scrap Year for Convention's Memories

Capsuled knowledge that one swallows in the mornings was not in the future for some students at BA. For the members of the Future Teachers of America, knowledge included more than the digestion of facts.

Much of the learning experience for the members was accomplished at conventions. They compiled a scrapbook containing pictures of the district convention, of College Night at BA, and of projects during the year. Judges graded the scrapbook at the state convention in Houston.

Sponsors Mrs. Lenora Cathey and Miss Cheryl Johnston established guidelines for the future teachers. Through the direction of President Jo Ann Quinn, the club took presents to elderly patients at Parkland Hospital.

Future Secretaries Attain Knowledge of Business World

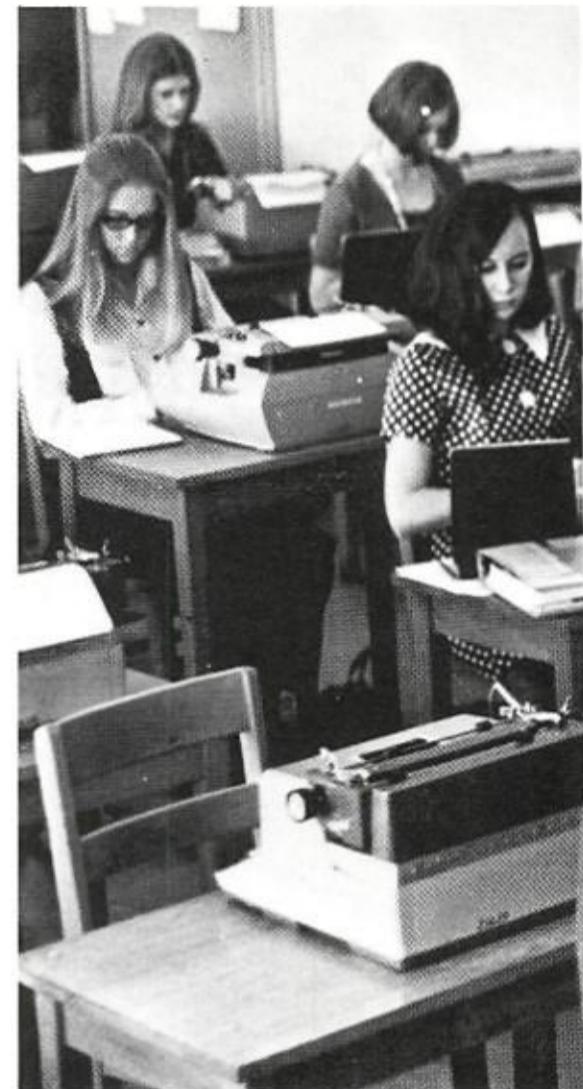

Speed and accuracy comprised the primary goals of Future Secretaries as they strove for advancement in such areas as shorthand and typing. While developing these skills, members also discussed the essentials of letter writing, filing, and daily office procedures.

Each meeting provided a closer look at the objectives of a secretarial future while impressing the importance of a good personal appearance. A representative of the Tricia Stevenson Modeling School met with the club answering questions concerning appearance.

During the year, girls met with various executives of the business world, in pursuing their hopes of a secretarial career.

"Christ – He's for Me!" Good Slogan for Strong Athletes

"Who is this guy called Christ? What does he have to do with me or you? Where does he lead a person's life?" Funny-sounding questions? They sound normal to the members of the BA chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, who have learned meaningful answers to the questions in their lives.

Boasting a roster of more than fifty, members met for bi-monthly meetings in the film room. Led by President Bobby Hamilton, the FCA entertained such speakers as the Texas Tech football coach and star players from champion college football teams. Sponsor Mr. Ralph Zeitz was seen greeting visitors with an outstretched hand of Christian fellowship.

Conferences Bring Leadership to Students

Three outstanding students participated in many leadership conferences during the 1970-71 school year. Junior Pattie Parker and Senior Paul Low participated in the Superintendent's Student Advisory Committee that met once a month with Dr. Nolan Estes. This committee set up a centralized file on the Dallas high schools' dress codes, clubs, and organizations. After making a survey of the curriculum, this committee added two new courses, Psychology and Sociology.

Seniors Ann Kovich and Paul Low went to the Governor's Committee on Children and Youth last November. This conference sent the conclusions on the problems of America's youth to Washington, D. C. Ann and Paul, selected as Outstanding Teen-agers in Dallas, participated in the White House Conference on Youth at Colorado Springs, Colorado in April.

Christ and Students Merge Through Leadership of YES

Religion and today's youth joined in a new club at Bryan Adams, Youth Encounter Seventy. The meetings involved both Christians and non-Christians who were interested in sharing themselves.

Special speakers also shared their experiences with the students. John Watson, a former student at BA who is studying to become a preacher, talked about involvement with Christ. Other BA graduates related the Christian experience to life on today's college campus. Brother Franz, a Dutch missionary to Communist countries, detailed the dangers and rewards of a life lived for Christ.

YES also served the community by giving food to needy people and by preparing a party for handicapped children. This group brought the students of BA and Christ together, building upon His foundation.

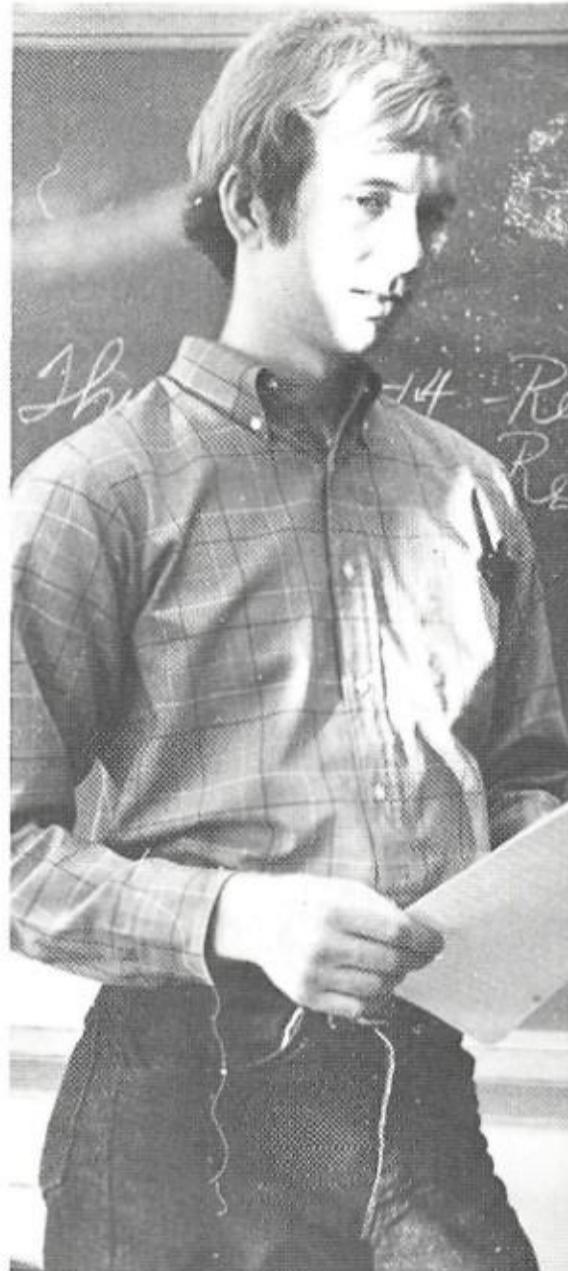

JCTC Rallies to Take Road to Safe-Driving Community

"SRIP Junction — L: 30 MPH" students read as they participated in the annual BA Road Rally. Drivers as well as riders in the event received a necessary code sheet as they checked in at pit-stops on the road to victory and safe driving.

The Junior Citizens Traffic Commission stayed busy with other activities, too, as two-year president Joe Marek led members through juvenile traffic court sessions during the year. Problems of driving such as "drugs" and "drunks" were discussed when the JCTC met. Members kept the student body up-to-date on new traffic safety laws and ways to improve driving skills. Members supported the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Road-E-O along with new police policies.

Students and Police Trade Complaints for Compliance

"But the police make me so mad! What business do they have sticking their noses in my affairs?" The Youth Involvement Council decided that this was becoming too much of a cliche, and it was time to act. Through field trips, bi-monthly meetings, and police-student discussions, the Council began to bridge the gap between police and students.

Through cooperation between students and police, outcomes of discussions about the police role in society and student participation were reached. At least two police officers and several students attended meetings led by President Jay Six and Vice-President Tom Ibbotson. By taking a look at all sides of situations concerning accidents and school rules, all who attended benefited through expression and change of opinion.

Para-Medical Club Debates Vital Issues

Drugs, drug abuse, and human transplants became the topics of discussion and research of the Para-Medical Club. Doctors and speakers from various fields of the medical world spoke of the problems and possible solutions of their work.

Under the guidance of Miss Davilla Lynch and Mrs. Irene Crosby, the club presented skits at Children's Medical Hospital during the Christmas holidays. Field trips to such places as Baylor College of Dentistry brought the members to a greater understanding of the world of medicine. Money-making projects such as candy sales raised necessary funds for the club's projects. Through the Para-Medical Club, members came in closer contact with the constantly changing world of medicine.

The Intricacies of Chess Produce Masters of Strategy

Quietness so intense that it could be only deep concentration proved to be highly essential in the art of chess. Members of the Chess Club met weekly to improve their knowledge and strategy of the game.

Tournaments both in and out of school were necessary to sharpen the alertness needed to execute each move. Club members spent many hours involved in discussion and actual experimentation with the theories of chess. Meetings provided playing time and assistance when a certain objective of the game needed clarification. With a basic understanding of chess, members worked for a greater knowledge of the art.

Sixteen Issues Keep Chronicle Staff Busy

Sixteen issues of a newspaper sounded like a thousand as Cougar Chronicle staff members began work in September. By May, interviews, copy count, and deadlines were met with the accuracy and speed of an everyday routine. Under the leadership of editor Sondra Utley and sponsor Mrs. Anne Riddle, the staff worked diligently to produce a modern and optimistic picture of Bryan Adams.

Issuing a paper every two weeks received only part of the staff's attention. Individuals traveled to the Denton Journalism Contest and other journalism contests to compete for honors in the fields of News Coverage, News Values, News Writings, News Editing, and Features. In the course of habit, staff members brought home the honors.

"Pub" Staff Pictures Senior Mistakes in Black and White

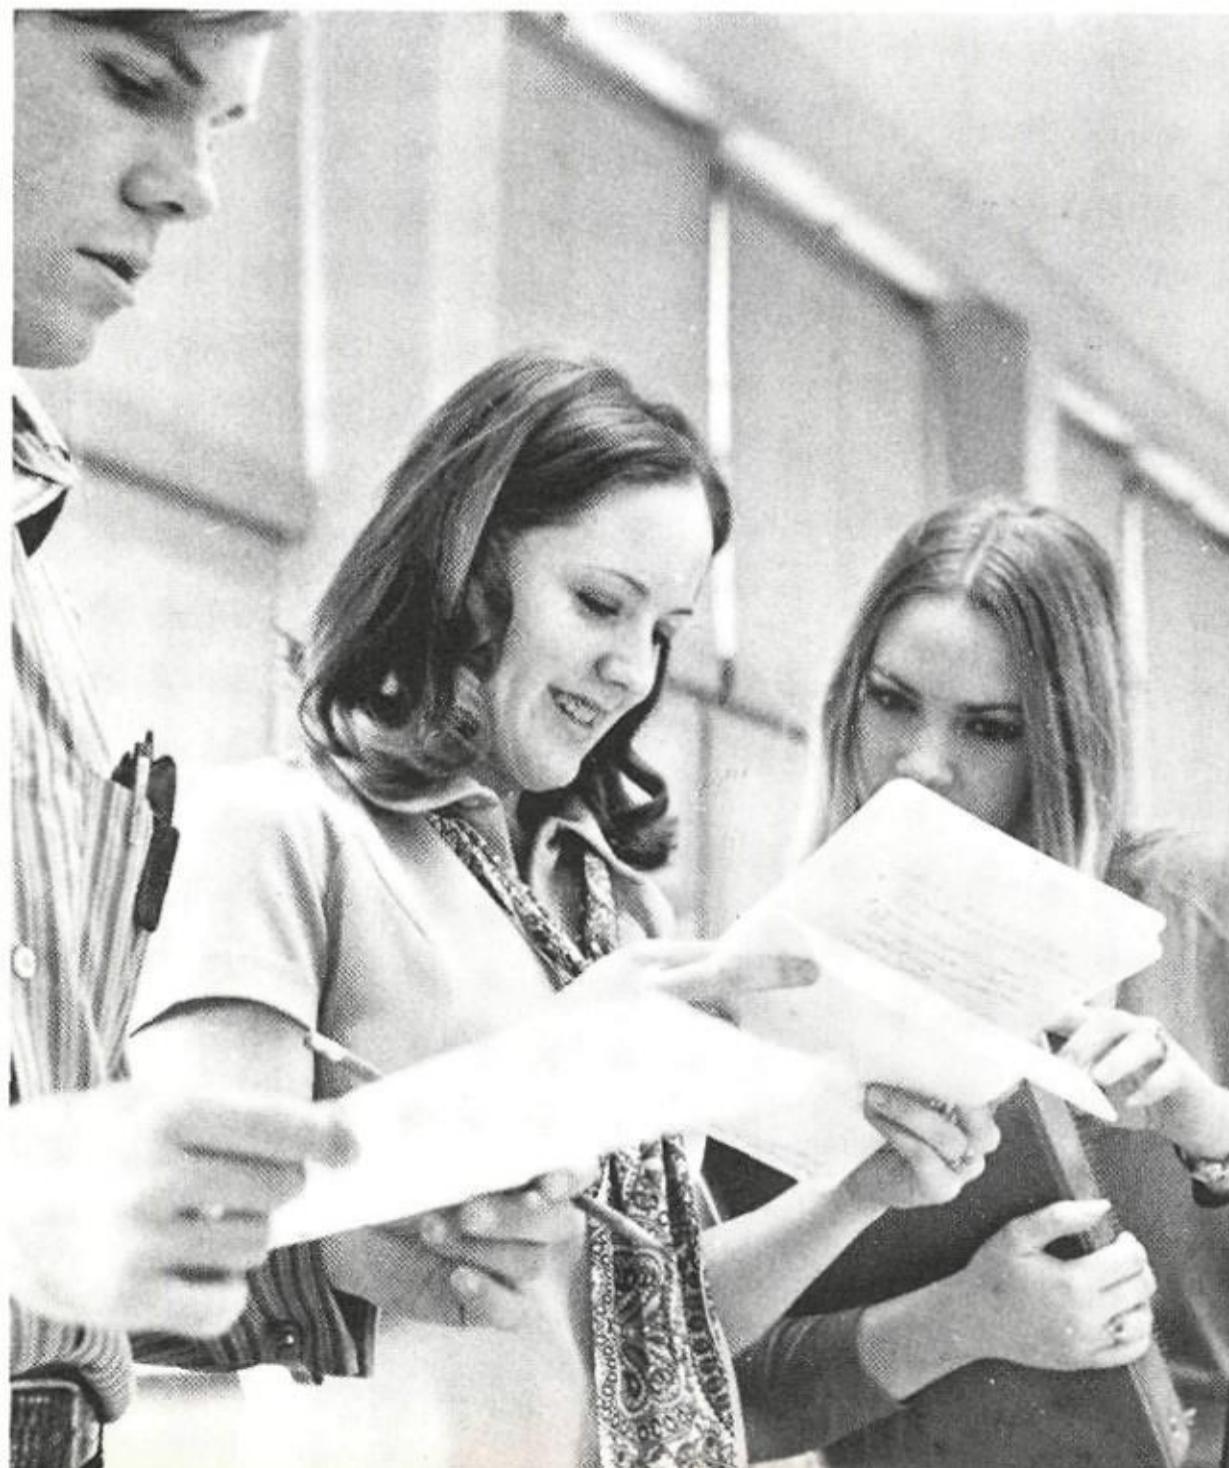

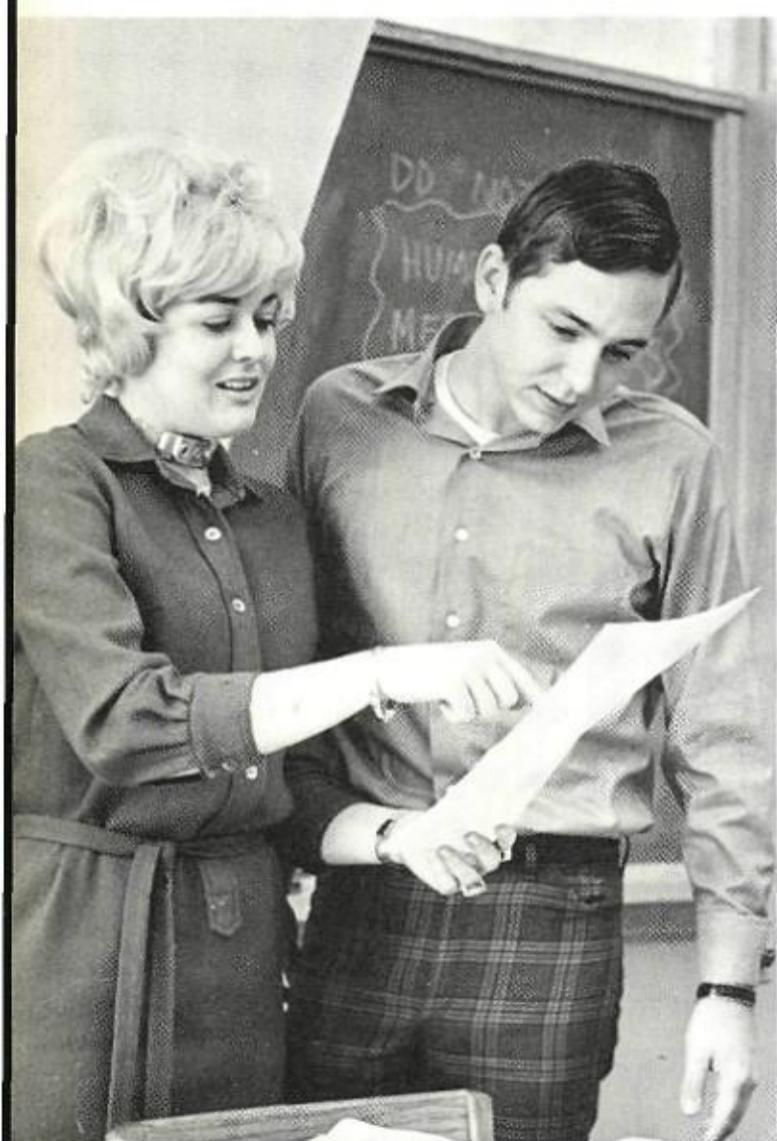

Seventy-five students, working in a non-credit situation, were named to the "Pub" staff in December. Armed with pens and paper, the staff began their task of cutting the members of the Senior class down to size.

Assisted by nine sectional editors, Kyle Gooch led the staff in the writing and printing of the traditional spring publication. Through meetings before and after school and special night meetings, the fifty-seven members of the humor committee wrote, deleted and rewrote until the material seemed dull and humorless to them.

However, the staff's reward was realized when the 1971 "Pub" was sold later in the spring. The book met with different reactions from all. To all seniors Kyle Gooch said, "The "Pub" is not meant to hurt anyone. We have said everything with a light sense of humor, and we hope it is taken in that manner."

Staff Awaits Scribble Day Armed With Honors to Bestow

"Oh, the annual is just beautiful!" offered members of the 1970-71 el Conquistador staff. Between frequent praises for their work, the staff managed to suppress personality secrets, the cover design, and the book's dedication until Scribble Day.

Sports, organizations, faculty, activities, classes, business, and advertising met copy, picture, and page deadlines under the direction of Editor Kathy Downer. In her first year to teach, Mrs. Marsha Bowlin sponsored the el C. In an unprecedented step to produce the best annual ever, she gave the staff a free rein to record permanently all phases of school life.

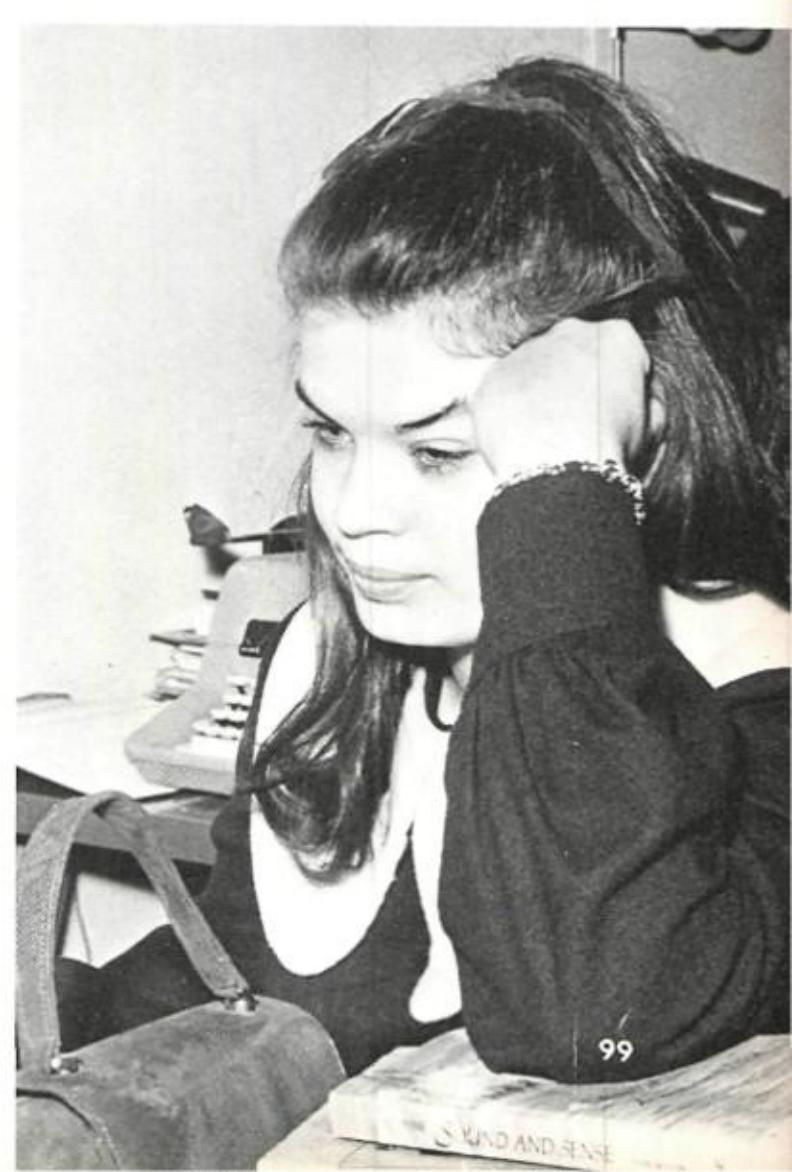

Innovations created an annual like none other in Bryan Adams history. On a background of traditional white, a uniquely designed cougar rested on the book's cover. Because the "cat" had been drawn for BA alone, no other annual in the United States had a cougar like it. An opening section placed memories above style to create a more personal annual. For the first time in the school's history, personality and honor awards were not announced until publication of the book.

Finally, the 1970-71 el Conquistador tried to capture and record the thoughts and opinions of the Bryan Adams student body for the years to come.

"To induce habits of orderliness and precision, to instill discipline and thereby respect for Constituted law and authority, to encourage a high sense of personal confidence, honor, and deportment are the immediate objectives of the Corps. The primary mission of the Reserve Officers Training Corps is the development of intelligent citizenship and to bring out leadership qualities in the individual. 'The challenge is ours.' "

Sponsors Bring Enjoyment to the Cadets

R.O.T.C. sponsors participated in varied activities representing their Companies. They brought to the Corp a light-hearted spirit and shared the interest of the cadets. A few basic qualifications were needed to enable a girl to become an ROTC sponsor. The sponsors were elected by the cadets and represented them at Cotton Bowl football games, in weekly Tuesday morning parades and in the Miss ROTC competition at the North Dallas Rifle and Drill competition. Their enthusiasm for the Corp and what it stood for matched that of the cadets.

Les Sabres Add Perfection to Routine

"Les Sabres" represented BA as one of the most competitive ROTC Drill Teams in the city of Dallas. "Les Sabres" Drill Team traveled to such competitions as North Dallas Rifle and Drill Competition, Byrdville Rifle and Drill Competition, TCU, UTA, the Gulf Coast, and various other drill competitions. In the past years, the team has come to learn the true meaning of precision drill. Diligence was needed to accomplish difficult and precise movements necessary to place high in each of the competitions. The team worked to do as well in future competitions.

One Short of District Crown

Despite the lack of experience in the team as a whole, the mighty Bryan Adams Cougar Varsity Football team almost made it to the top.

Through the efforts of each individual player on the team, the Green and White finished with a 9-1 season record. The Rebels of Thomas Jefferson dealt BA a crushing defeat to kill the championship drive. Other than that, the Cougars managed an unblemished record.

Bus Trip Brings Win for BA

From the beginning of football drills in August, through the long bus trip to San Angelo, to the end of the team's first game of the season, the thought that the Cougars might find anything but victory in their historical "dust bowl game" never occurred to anyone. That is, it never occurred at any time except from the opening kickoff to the final gun of the mean Green's 22-21 win over the San Angelo Bobcats.

Cougar whiskers were severely singed as the Bobcats leaped out to a 21-0 halftime lead, and the outlook became bleak for BA. But the fans continued to growl, and the Big Green team roared back with tremendous "Cougar Power."

From 14 yards out, BA quarterback Mark Beesley connected with end Bill Holland in the Bobcat prowling grounds for the initial Cougar score. Halfback Mark Crouch lofted the pigskin to Ricky Epps for 21 yards and the second score. Afterwards, the Green defense held on, and once again the powerful Cougar offense acquired possession of the ball. With less than two minutes to play, Crouch bulled his way for 16 yards and the final TD. Beesley passed to Epps for two points on the conversion, and the final score stood in favor of the Big Green.

Cougar Defense Clips Owls

Defense played the major roll for the Cougars as they stole seven Owl fumbles and intercepted one pass to smother the Garland Owls, 10-6.

With little more than a minute gone in the initial quarter, BA linebacker Mike Ilaoa pounced on a fumble in Owl territory. Then, to further clip the Owl's wings, running back Blake Johnson exploded off right tackle for 35 yards and the Mean Green's lone touchdown of the night. Junior kicking specialist Larry Whatley booted the extra point, and a tight defensive battle ensued. Outstanding for the Cougars on the defensive side were Glenn Morgan and Mark Walden.

Neither team managed another score until "super kicker" Whatley connected on a 26 yard strike through the up-rights and a 10-0 lead for the Cougars resulted.

Heads up play contained the Owl offensive until they managed to score late in the last period. The final tally, 10-6, gave the Mean Green a 2-0 season record.

Mean Green Upends Tigers; Spirit Growls

Spirit and desire became the key in Bryan Adams first district game, as they caged the Lincoln Tigers.

Lincoln scored first by keying on Cougar errors, and things looked shakey for our side. But BA came back and tied up on a 15 yard dash by rambling halfback Blake Johnson. The Green Team then met pay dirt three times in the second period. Halfback Mark Crouch got two touchdowns on runs of 39 yards and three yards, and Johnson picked up his second TD on a plunge from the one.

Substituting freely, the Mean Green scored three more times during second half play. Quarterback Mark Beesley scored a strike with end Ricky Epps for five yards and a TD. Signal caller Steve Ritchey connected on his first play to Junior halfback Ronny Johnston from seven yards out and another score. End Ben Green got the final Cougar TD on a 26 yard rifle shot from Junior quarterback Quincy Hill.

Kicker Larry Whatley proved true on all but the last conversion attempt as the Cougars locked the cage on the Tigers, 48-19.

Teamwork Sinks Viking Ship

Fast Cougar action crushed the L. G. Pinkston Vikings Friday night, October 2, to the tune of 42-0.

Defensive end Troy McDaniel opened the scoring, as he stole a Viking pass and scrambled 30 yards for a TD. Halfback Mark Crouch punched his way for 21 yards and the second Cougar score. Kicker Larry Whatley added three more points on a 34 yard field goal, and Quarterback Mark Beesley dove one yard for a TD to complete first half scoring.

On the second play of the third quarter, Ronnie Johnston carried the pigskin 59 yards for another BA score. Quarterback Steve Ritchey called his own number for the fifth TD of the evening.

Cougar defense crushed Pinkston's offense throughout the game and gathered four points of its own from two Viking safeties.

Cougar Offense-Defense Adds Fifth Scalp

Eight Cougars crossed the goal line as Bryan Adams scalped the H. Grady Spruce Apaches 56-0.

Throughout the game the offensive cup overflowed. BA scoring went as follows: Blake Johnson scurried 56 yards; Ronny Johnston galloped 17 yards; a 24 yard scamper by Mark Crouch; Ricky Epps snagged a 15 yard Steve Ritchey fling; Tommy Carbone shot nine yards; John Ilaoa twinkle-toed 25 yards with an intercepted pass; Quency Hill dashed 18 yards; Larry Orth outraced the Spruce defenders for 76 yards; Larry Whatley totaled points on eight successive conversion attempts.

BA played its usual defensive game by holding the Apaches scoreless. Six interceptions and three fumble recoveries were credited to the Mean Green's unyielding defense.

TOP: "Rugged Rusty" Allen puts out 112.6% effort in his attempt to reach the ball.

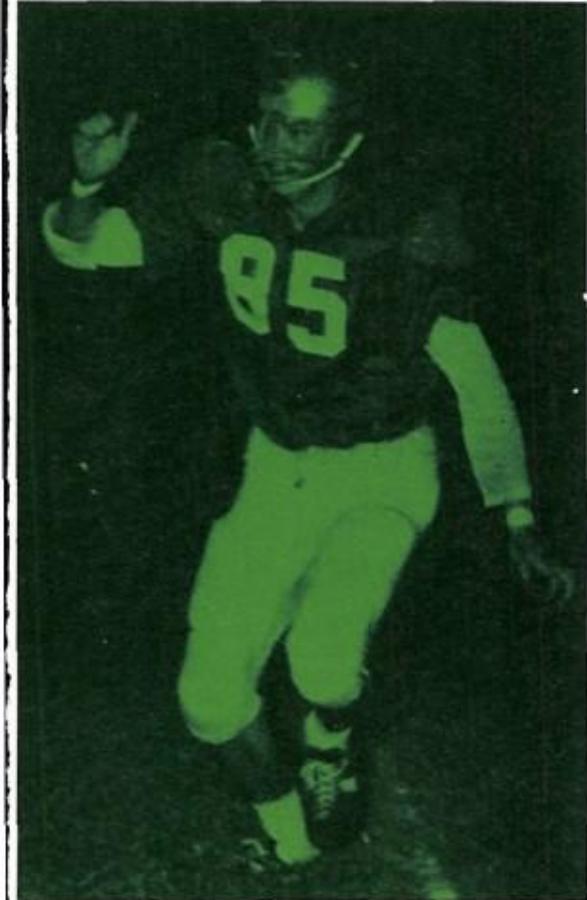

ABOVE: The fingers of Tommy Carbone reach for Steve Ritchey's pass.

Cougars Stampede Longhorns

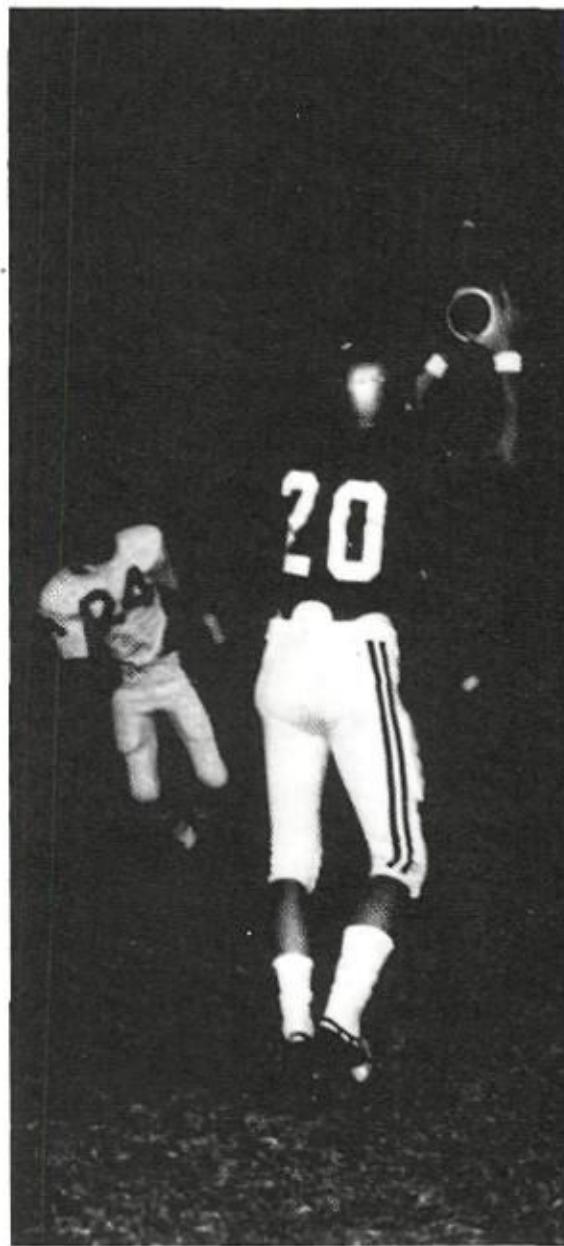

When Bryan Adams finally got started, they twisted the horns of the W. T. White Longhorns by a margin of 30-8.

With three Cougar players rushing for more than 90 yards apiece, the Mean Green crunched for 376 yards along the ground route. Quarterback Mark Beasley tallied first for the "Green and White" on a one yard dive. Larry Whatley added his ideas with a 42 yard field goal to end first-half scoring.

Runningback Mark Crouch got the next six points with a four yard dash off left tackle. Blake Johnson, the game's leading rusher, followed with a scamper of 28 yards to paydirt and finished the game with 157 yards on 13 carries. Ronny Johnston ended the scoring by buling two yards with the pigskin, and Whatley added the other points on conversion kicks.

Close Call Ends in Victory

In an emotional game of many penalties and little scoring, Bryan Adams emerged victorious over the Hillcrest Panthers with a score of 16-13.

Hillcrest drew first blood as they marched for a touchdown on their initial possession. BA showed little life until late in the first quarter when the green offense drove to the Panther five. Two major penalties forced the Cougars to settle for a 31 yard field goal via Larry Whatley's famous foot. Hogging the pigskin with ball control in the second quarter, Bryan Adams covered 61 yards in 13 plays for their first touchdown. Junior Mark Crouch sneaked into the end zone from the one, and Whatley's point after kick into the wind was wide.

The Panthers managed a second TD in the third quarter while the Cougar score remained unchanged until the fourth quarter. BA battled its way 81 yards through the Hillcrest defense in 10 plays. A three yard lunge from halfback Crouch put the Mean Green ahead to stay. Whatley added his point on the conversion to complete the scoring.

Cougars Sneak Past Trojans

Saturday was usually a day of rest for the Bryan Adams' football team. Consequently, the Cougars rested on their only Saturday contest and almost failed to defeat the winless James Madison Trojans.

The long afternoon was filled with dull, uninspiring plays. The Big Green defense presented Bryan Adams with the football on the Madison 26 yard line early in the game. Four plays, capped by a nine yard dash by senior Blake Johnson, put BA into the end zone for the game's lone score. Larry Whatley sailed his extra point through the goal posts, and the scorekeeper remained idle the rest of the day.

The Cougar offense, plagued by five fumbles, sputtered through the remainder of the event. The Mean Green defense halted every Trojan scoring threat as the "offensive II" frequently rewarded Madison with excellent field position. Outstanding names for the BA defense were linebacker Tommy King, and safety Quency Hill. The final whistle brought signs of relief from the Bryan Adams' bench as the Cougars squeezed past the Madison Trojans with a score of 7-0.

Rebels Crush Cougar Dreams

The emotion expressed at the TJ game had been gradually building to a climax throughout the season. The mighty Cougars possessed an unblemished record, and the Thomas Jefferson Rebels were undefeated in district play. All hopes for a district title would be shattered or fulfilled in a short 48 minute contest at Loos Stadium.

The battle began with neither team showing any supremacy. Finally, late in the 1st quarter the Rebels pushed the ball across the Cougar goal line. Bryan Adams failed to produce points until a second quarter Larry Whatley field goal from the 25 yard line.

In the second half, Thomas Jefferson managed another touchdown as they continued to dominate the game. With a 14-3 score and less than two minutes remaining, junior quarterback Quency Hill entered the contest and put life back in the Cougar cause. Hill engineered a long drive into the TJ end zone as Troy McDaniel caught a 10 yard pass for the only BA touchdown. Quarterback Hill connected with Bill Holland for a successful two point conversion pass. For Bryan Adams it was "two little, too late" as all hopes for a district crown were lost in the 14-11 defeat.

Tough Cougar Season – Fast Cougar Finish

"Who'd a thunk it?" . . . that BA could have overcome the shattering effects of the week before and put anything together at all? But they did get it all together, and the Samuell Spartans knew it as the Cougars mangled them 21-0.

As muddy as the battlefield was, the Cougar defense held tough and the offense blasted out for three touchdowns. Junior Mark Crouch rambled through the ground route for one and tossed a 60-yard bomb to Ricky Epps for another. But the defense stood out most as they chalked up their fourth shutout.

Typical of the season's play, Bryan Adams hustled and hit hard to finish with a 9-1 record, which was good for second place in district.

JV, B Team Develop Through Winning Year

Before a boy played for the BA Varsity football team, he had to show his abilities and prove himself worthy of the honor. The Junior Varsity and B Team offered a player these opportunities. On both teams, the athlete became familiar with the BA football program, and he hopefully prepared himself for a position on the "Mean Green" varsity. Their performances on either of these two teams determined their football careers at Bryan Adams.

The 1970 JV excelled in all of their games as Coaches Dolph Regelsky and Larry Covin led them through an undefeated season. Coach Frank Davis guided the B Team in the 1970 football schedule.

Roundballers – Tough Pace!

Cougar Roundballers were of a distinguishable breed as they kept the opposition guessing. Nobody seemed to be able to predict what the mighty Green and White would do next. During the first half of the season they compiled a 4-4 record while beating the top four teams in their last four games.

Seniors Rick Morris and Aaron Compton led the team with Coach Ralph Zeitz filling the coaching slot. The team members worked hard and practiced an average of four to five hours daily. Morris, who set the example with fine ball handling, led the other players to keep things tight in almost every contest. All in all, it was a good season, and interest stayed at a high, even with the losses.

BA Tumblelinas Roll Through Another Year

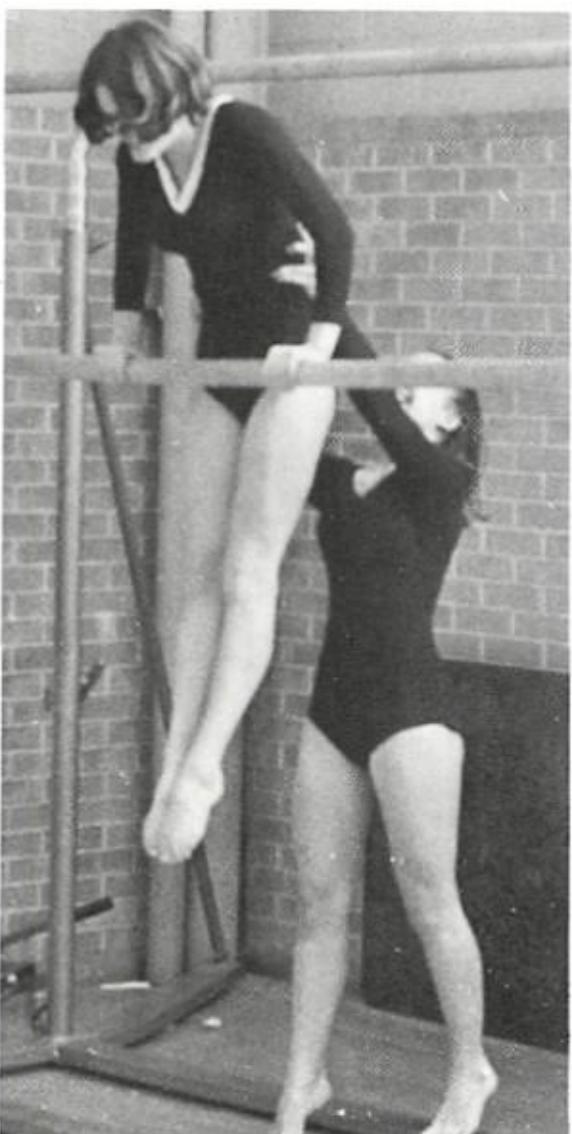

As the newest entity to Bryan Adams sportsdom, the Cougar Tumbling Team climbed peaks of success through the use of body contortions and coordinated acrobatic movements. The squad competed in the state High School Meet and other district meets.

Although few seemed to acknowledge the presence of such an artistically beautiful sport at BA, the Tumblers made it clear that they were a part of the tough Green and White Sports Department. With Coach Sinah Goode instructing the girls, the Bryan Adams student body caught a glimpse of what real liberation could mean.

It only took a little white ball, a set of golf clubs, and a lot of skill and co-ordination to make the grade as a member of the Bryan Adams Golf Squad. But that was saying a mouthful and then some.

Through hours of daily practice and preparation, the team members chipped, putted, drove, tapped, and generally did just about anything necessary and fair to sharpen their skills into championship material. Under the direction of Coach Herb Best and the leadership of seasoned senior golfers, the Golf team gained the unity involved in a great team, as well as the individual skills that are a must.

With the start of the season and the tough schedule it entailed, the team felt well prepared to tackle anything and anybody. After all, it only takes a finely co-ordinated athlete to make the grade.

Track Team Sprints Quickly

In past years, athletes have been only instruments of strength and timing with no real need for mental capacity. However, this was not so as far as the Bryan Adams Tracksters were concerned. The guys who "stuck with it" and used their own minds to train themselves should be highly commended for their self discipline as well as their physical abilities.

Coach Frank Davis supervised the team in their daily work-outs in such activities as hurdling, shotput, discus, long jump, and many running events. What can you say to a bunch of guys like that?

Rackets Blaze as Tennis Athletes Warm Up

Love, deuce, fault, forehand, drive, volley, and overhead smash were words found in the lingo of every tennis player. The tennis players of the Bryan Adams tennis team not only knew what the words meant, but executed each word for tennis motion with skill and agility.

The sport required much practice to achieve excellence. Cougar racketeers trained for fierce competition daily after school. Coach Wayne Scott supervised workouts and sponsored the team as instructor and coach. Faithful dedication and superb ability made the squad of sophomores, juniors, and seniors one of the finest in the city.

Cougar Team Captures District Swim Crown

Bryan Adams boasted a swimming team of champion quality during the 1970-71 season. Coach "Zeke" Zidermanis molded swimming seniors, juniors, and sophomores into specimens that even fish envied.

Co-Captains Dane Johnson and Bret Stephen of the boy's squad and Carol Formway and Marcy Lair of the girl's squad led the BA tank team into every meet. Hard daily workouts at White Rock swimming pool became a routine for the Cougar tankers. This practice prepared the team for their arch rivals, W. T. White and Hillcrest.

The boy's squad won the district title, while the girl's finished high on the list. Thus, the excellent athletic tradition of winning at Bryan Adams was carried on by the efforts of the swim team.

Baseball – Bright Picture

Baseball at Bryan Adams may not have been an everyday topic of conversation, but that's beside the point. The point consisted of the energetic enthusiasm as well as the consistency and excitement of the individual players and coach working as a team.

With so many finely co-ordinated players and so much dedication working together, it was hard to suspect that the Cougars could go anywhere but far. And far they went, as Coach Dolph Regelsky drilled the necessary skills into a team that developed into a cogwork of on-time machinery.

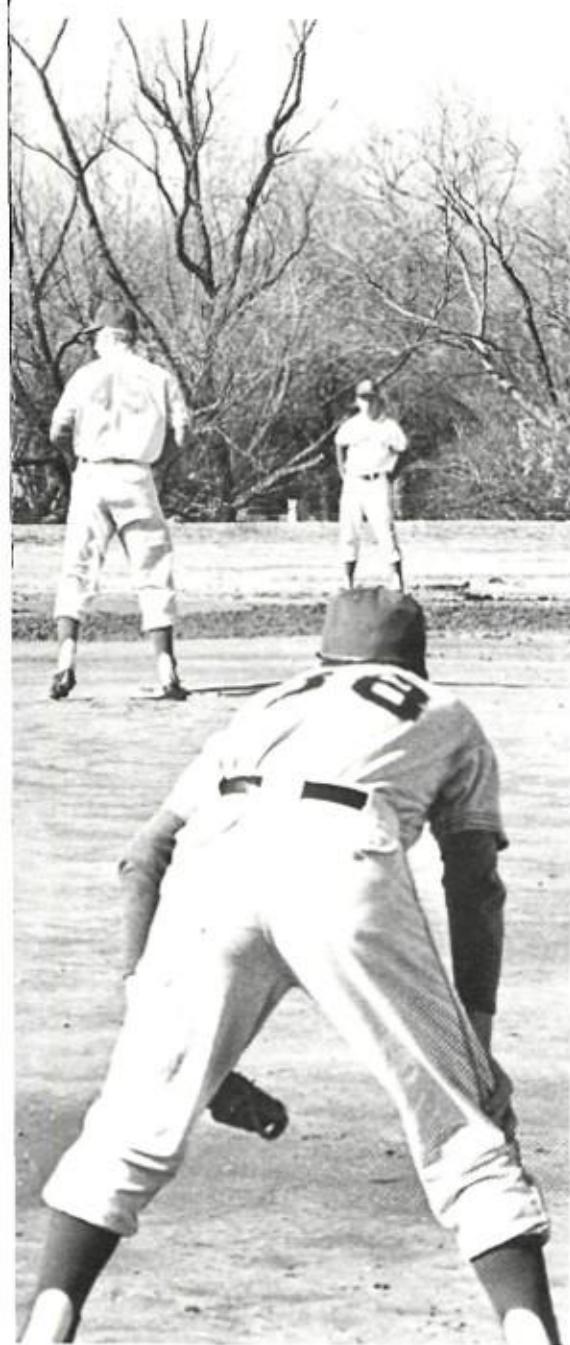

Captains Ricky Brockway and Rudy Fernandez uncoiled themselves as fine examples, and the team followed by giving their all in an effort that made other 11-AAAA teams sit up and take notice. Baseball at BA may never again be the same.

School Board Anticipates Bright Future in Education

Continuing efforts by the school administration for the improved education of children and young adults of Dallas highlighted activities of the '70 - '71 school board.

Teacher salaries, lunchroom food prices, school districting, and maintaining efficient use of building facilities were only a few problems faced by the school board, headed by Superintendent Dr. Nolan Estes. Benefiting the student and teacher was the main concern of Dr. Estes. He visited all the schools in the district and saw recent innovations in action.

Mr. Richardson Provides for Improvement of Student Body

"Good is not good enough" declared Bryan Adams' principal Mr. Dearl D. Richardson throughout the year. He indicated a need for students to become involved in student activities and to excel in areas of personal interest.

In his role as principal, Mr. Richardson became totally involved with student life in and around BA. Besides the task of making daily announcements, co-ordinating all aspects of school life, and establishing a rapport with all students, he represented Bryan Adams to all area high schools and the surrounding community.

Mr. Richardson was aided throughout the year by Mrs. Evelyn Holt and Mrs. Frances Swift.

Assistant Principals Aid School Through Understanding

Arranging assemblies, coordinating student activities with school policy, and supervising activities and curriculum by scheduling clubs busied Assistant Principals Earl Killough and Jerry Madison, Administrative Intern Marcus Freeman, and Pupil Personnel Counselor Sarah Carmichael.

Miss Carmichael handled the task of keeping daily enrollment and attendance records. Mr. Madison dealt with work permit applications and supervised the requisitioning and issuing of all textbooks.

Attitudes and interests of students were actively observed by the assistant principals, who also organized detention schedules.

Counselors Plan and Work and Work and Plan

"Help! My schedule is all wrong." Counselors directed new and old students of Bryan Adams through such traumatic experiences as this.

Mrs. Elizabeth Winder and Miss Nona Randolph guided the sophomores through the problems and questions of adapting to Bryan Adams.

Mrs. Nell Martin and Mrs. Elizabeth Enlow helped the juniors in their preliminary planning for college. They also encouraged their students to take the PSAT and National Merit Tests.

Mrs. Pagge Chamblee and Mrs. Ruth Lewis led the seniors through their final year of high school. Senior counselors helped to finalize the seniors' graduation plans and decisions as to their future academic lives.

Auxiliary Departments Aid With Daily Activities of B.A.

Bryan Adams' school days proceeded on an orderly basis with the assistance of the library, clinic, lunchroom and IBM staffs.

Mrs. Ruth Roan remained busy throughout the year, especially during report card weeks. She contributed to the daily routine by keeping attendance and making program cards.

Miss Hattie Fowler kept the library opened from early morning until late afternoon to provide adequate time and provisions for research and extra reading. Health records were maintained by the clinic staff. They aided ill students and advised them on treatment.

Study Halls Open New Doors to Advancement of Learning

As the student walks into study hall and prepares for a good hour's sleep, a terrible thought strikes him. "I haven't done my essay that should be turned in next period." Besides occurrences such as this, students use study halls to do assignments that they cannot find time to do at home. Study hall also offers the time to make last-minute corrections on themes and compositions.

If a student needs to do extra research or reading, study hall provides the time to go to the library. Also, study hall enables a student to consult with his counselor.

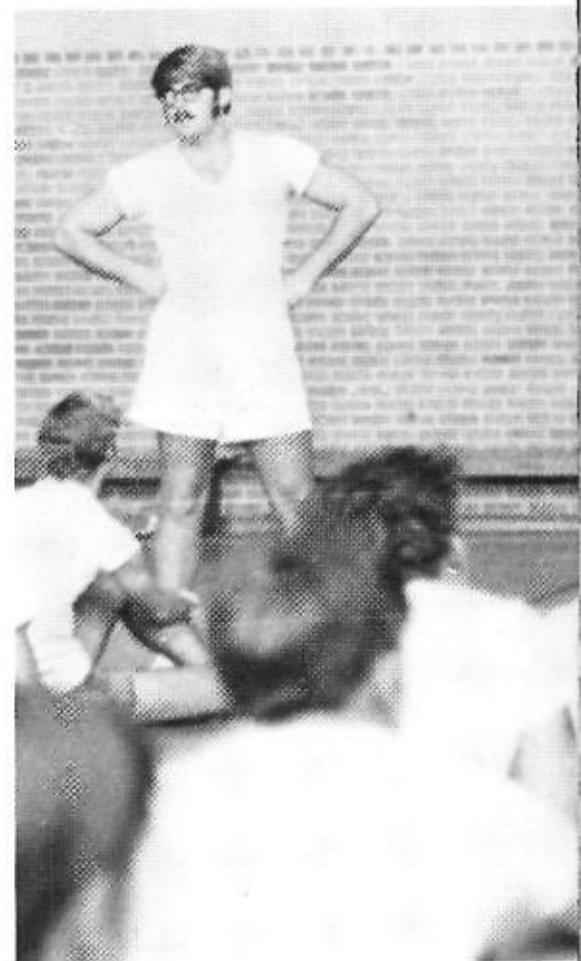

Students Exercise Toward a Stronger and Healthier Body

On alternating days, BA students attended Physical Education classes and participated in a large variety of activities. After warm-up exercises, one participated in seasonal sports such as basketball, volleyball, soccer, softball, and football. Also, a few students at a time played tennis.

The large size of many of the gym classes necessitated the need for organization. To supplement this need, students found themselves placed on a team. As a result of this system of organization, it followed that sportsmanship and competitiveness were encouraged.

Although exercising just twice or three times a week did not make a person physically fit, it should be remembered that "every little bit helped."

English: To Hear – To Comprehend – To Learn

Courses in English provided instruction for the various interests and aptitudes of the students of Bryan Adams. English courses developed the abilities to think clearly and to express thoughts orally and in writing. They also used literature as a means of learning of others as well as learning of oneself.

While the study of grammar improved the students' proper English usage, literature furnished the students with a taste of different cultures and periods of time.

Honors courses and High Academic Aptitude Groups enabled students to learn more than in conventional courses. These courses gave students of known ability and recognized achievement the chance to undertake work according to their ability.

History Studies the Change of Societies

Simulation games used in certain history classes gave students the opportunity to get into the "role" of other people. In one class, during the settlement of a labor-management contract, several truck drivers found themselves accused of taking amphetamines while on the job. The "games" did not always get so dramatic. However, the students who played actually learned how the person felt in a given situation.

Other history courses enabled the student to learn about his nation and the theory of government under which the United States operates. Advanced courses in English History provided the students with a new perspective of their "Mother Country." Latin-American History acted as a basis for a knowledge of their "South American neighbors."

BELOW: Officer Kozlovsky speaks in a Problems of Democracy Class.

“Languages” and “Symbols” Baffle New Math Students

Math instructors taught students the vital roles which mathematics played so that they acquired the skills to understand and apply them. The basic concepts of math received special attention at the beginning of the year. As time progressed, new areas were taught. New topics such as identities, vectors, and matrices enlightened the students.

Computer programming and the Math Club gave students with special interests in mathematics the chance to further their knowledge and understanding of the subject.

Slide rules made easy the problems which might otherwise involve many computations. In advanced courses students penetrated deeper into their chosen field of study.

Science Students Learn Scientific Process

Whether blowing up a test tube, opening a bottle of Butyric acid, or dissecting a frog, experiments in science gave students a chance to make practical applications of their knowledge of science.

Courses in Biology, Chemistry, and Physics taught the students various theories of the applied sciences. Advanced courses provided for students with special interests the chance to gain a better understanding of the field.

The Science Club, sponsored by Mr. Gary Atwood, hosted the Science Symposium at which people from the scientific world spoke to students on the many diversified and interesting fields of science.

Foreign Languages Soon Become Less Foreign

I love, you love, he loves, we love, you love and they love. "What is all this 'love' about?" someone asked. The befuddled guest happened in on one of the many foreign language classes of Bryan Adams.

French, German, Spanish, and Latin provided conversational as well as historical background of the respective countries. Films, slides, and pictures supplemented the knowledge and information gained from the traditional forms of study. Language labs enabled the students to hear the spoken language of fluent natives of the language's country.

CENTER: Mrs. Tyra answers many questions during Psychology discussions.

New Courses Promote Human Understanding

Understanding themselves and others became the goal of many students taking Psychology and Sociology. These courses, recent additions to the Bryan Adams curriculum, offered students a chance to learn the reasons behind their actions.

Psychology, instructed by Mrs. Sylvia Tyra, dealt with the actions and thoughts of the human being, revealing the hidden motivations behind everyday occurrences. Peoples' functions in their environment were studied and discussed by the Sociology classes, under the direction of Mrs. Pat Osborne.

Experiments were conducted throughout the year, and surveys were taken from both classes. Psychology students devised the first Teacher Evaluation system for BA, while the Sociology classes conducted area surveys of their own.

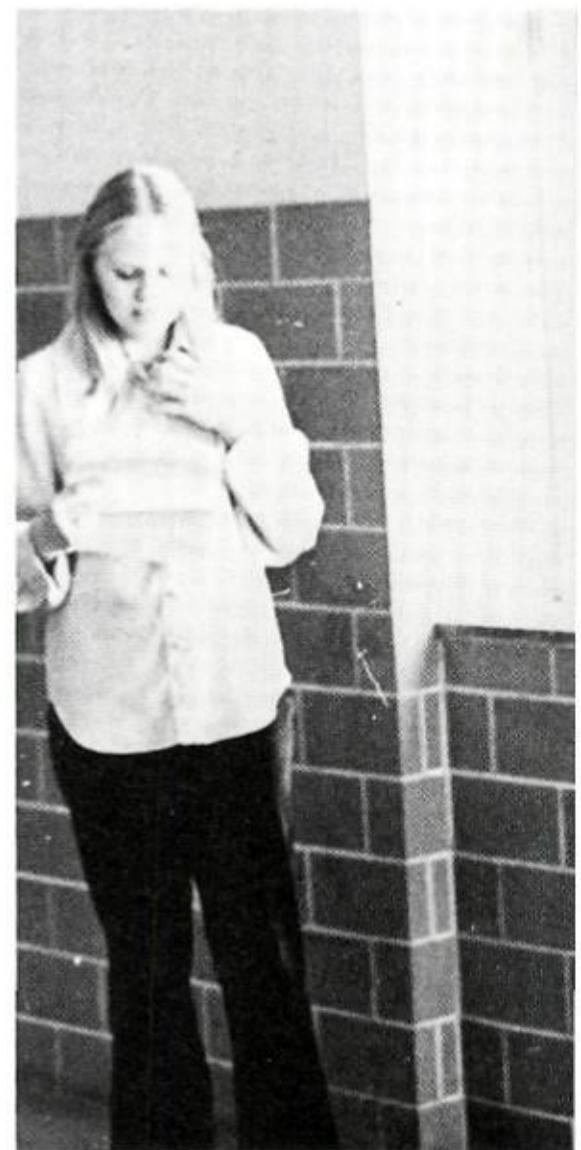

Speech, Journalism Promote Communication in Learning

Perfection in speeches, dramatic interpretations, and duet acting was achieved by numerous students taking Drama and Speech courses. Great talent was shown by both boys and girls as they practiced before, after, and during school hours.

After learning modern writing techniques for headlines and news stories, journalism students began work on the Cougar Chronicle. This publication provided an opportunity for students to expand the public's knowledge of school events. Through editorial writing, students conveyed their ideas on current affairs to the school and community.

TOP CENTER: Mr. Matlack listens to students' speeches.

BOTTOM CENTER: Merilee Shopland and Alan Hunter practice on Duet Acting.

Music and Art Stimulate Appreciation of Fine Arts

Loud sounds, sweet and sour, echoed from the band and orchestra rooms as the musical talents of students were developed. Students who demonstrated exceptional skills were permitted to play in the BA Band and Orchestra.

Meanwhile, in the art department, students practiced sketching, painting, and carving. Many of the young artists' projects were displayed in the trophy cases for special recognition.

TOP RIGHT: Wood shop provides an opportunity to build book shelves and cabinets.

RIGHT: Senior boy finds that Plastic Shop requires close concentration.

FAR RIGHT: Melinda Henry finds Home Economics to be an excellent time for extending her wardrobe.

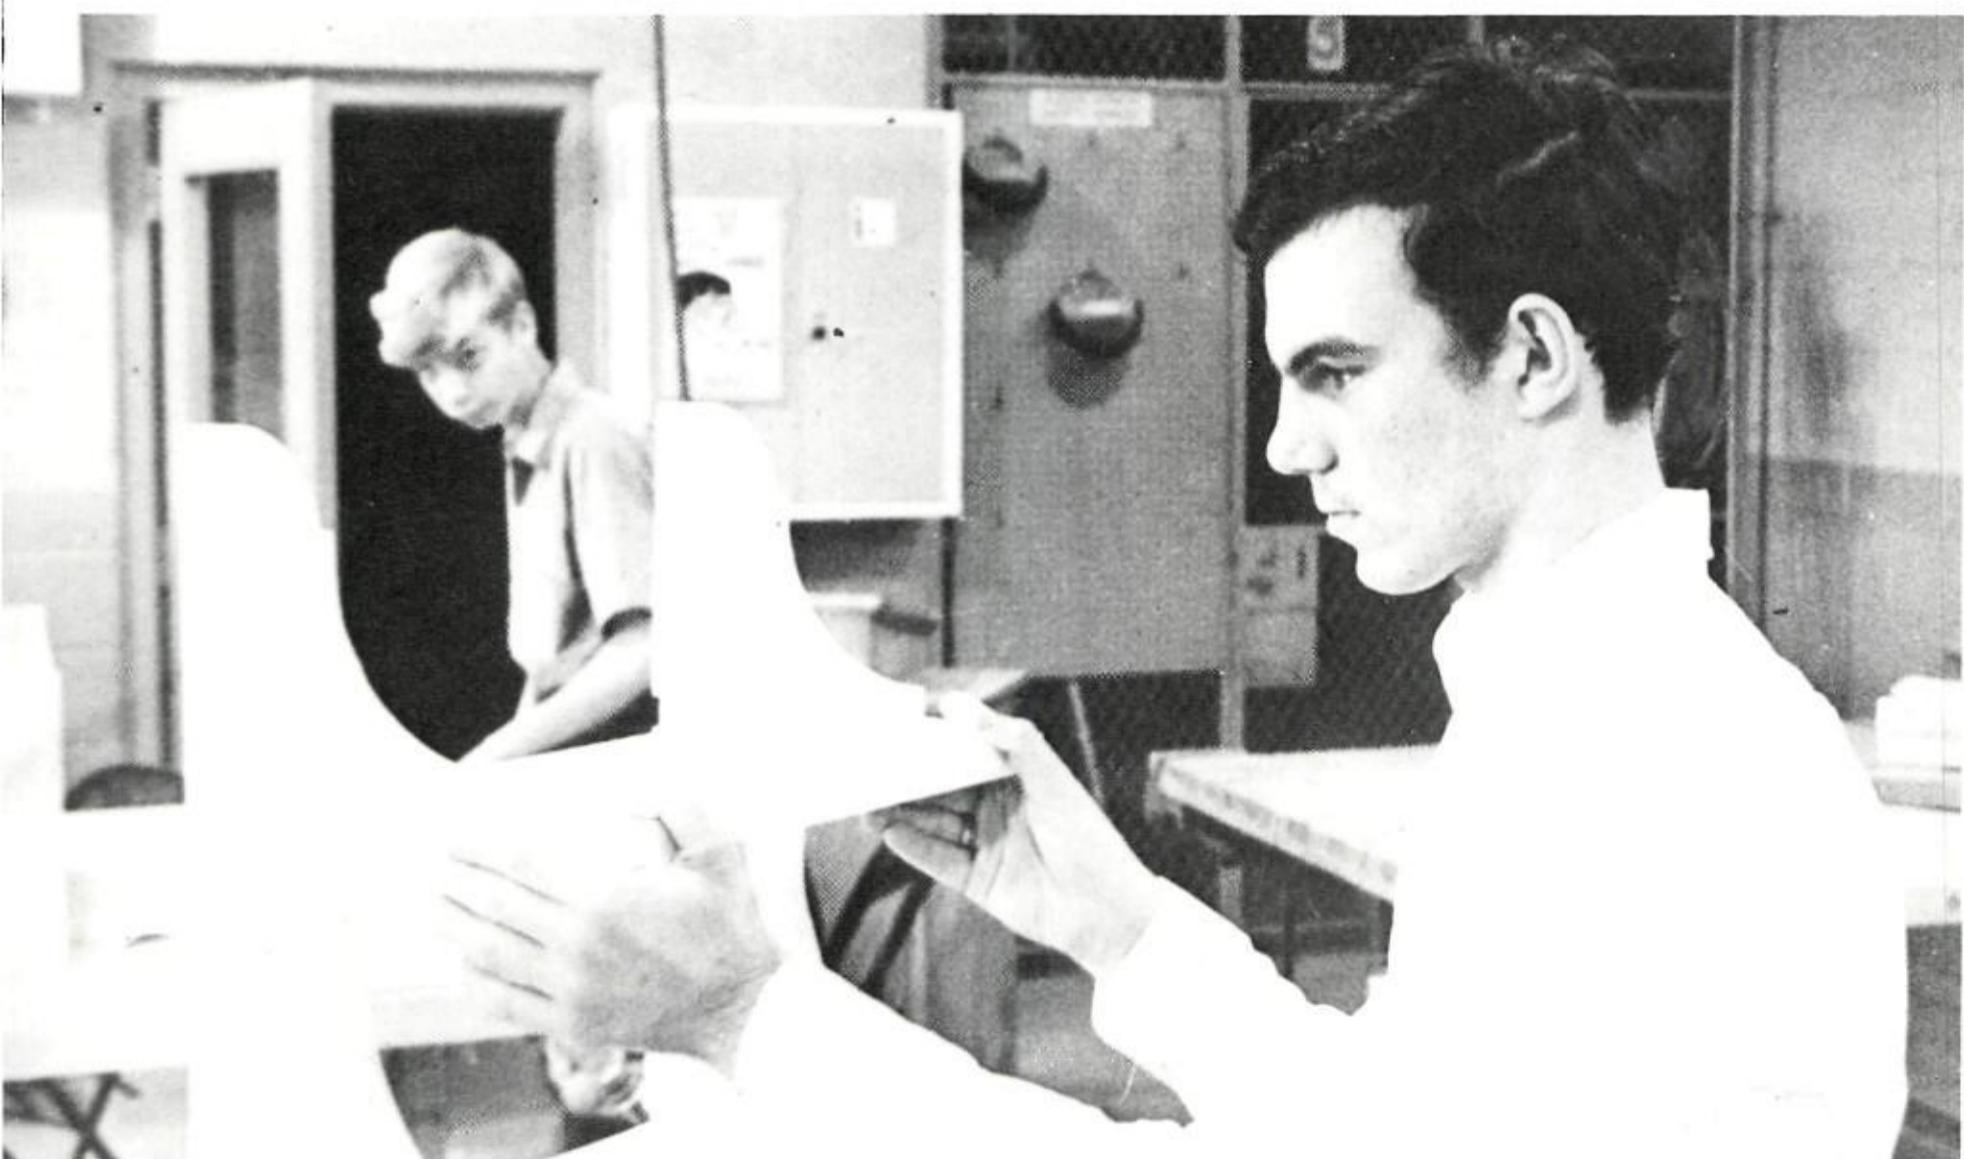

Home Economics, Industrial Arts Teach Valuable Skills

Necessary skills for present and later life were taught in the Home Economics and Industrial Arts departments. Consumer economics, family harmony, and child care were discussed in Family Living classes. Wardrobe design, sewing, cooking, and protein requirements were taught in the Home Economics courses.

Equally useful skills were learned in the Industrial Arts department. Architectural designs were studied by drafting students, while cabinets and other useful items were made by students in the Wood, Metal, and Plastics shops.

Business Preparation Inspires Learning

Basic programs provided students with the opportunity to learn about their chosen field and to gain experience through "on the job" training.

Emphasis in the use of industrial equipment demonstrated to Industrial Cooperative Training students the need for skill in labor. Those who participated in distributive instruction included advertising and store and sales management.

Health Occupational Cooperative training aided those students with medical interests. Vocational Office Education students studied basic office procedures. Agricultural Cooperative Training students trained for future careers in farm and nursery management.

FAR BOTTOM: Mr. Shores "laughs his way through" Book-keeping.

Students Begin Future in Office Practice

Prospective secretaries and hopeful business executives took courses in Business Math, Typing, Shorthand, and Bookkeeping. Columns of seemingly never-ending figures enabled students to learn the correct method of keeping a company's books.

Down the hall, Typing taught the basics and proper methods to deal with the confusing conglomeration of forms. Shorthand provided the knowledge for students to decipher the "foreign" language which at times somehow slipped away.

Faculty Follows Routines Sees New and Old Activities

This year, more modern ideas were brought to the Dallas school system. Curriculum innovations involving the new "no-exam" schedule and the new program computers were introduced.

Already equipped with the latest technological materials, teachers added their enthusiasm and interest to inspire youthful energy into useful channels. Each faculty member strove to attain a greater amount of achievement through their department activities.

Senior Hearts Remember the Little Things

1971

Often amid a competitive diversity of people emerge a few select individuals that consistently reach for an unattainable perfection, refusing to set a lower standard for their lives. At Bryan Adams these are the students that often quietly spend hours organizing projects and perfecting experimental techniques. They possess qualities that magnetically draw them into the challenging world of today's people and their ideas.

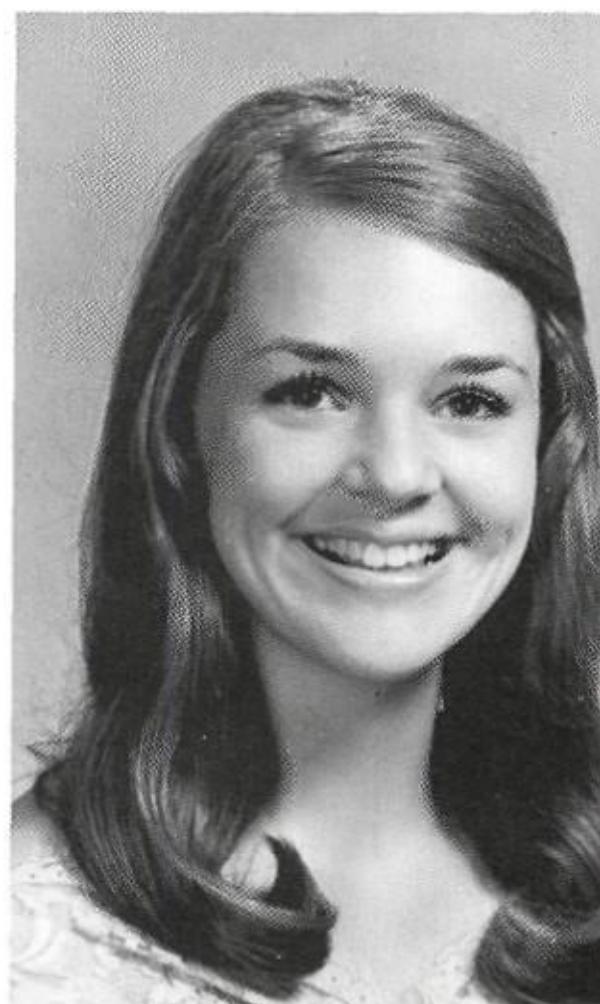

To these truly "individual" students, the el Conquistador awards the treasured Gold Cougar Award or "el C Salute." Presented to the recipients on "Scribble Day," the awards represent the entire Senior class in honoring these outstanding students.

"Have soul, for it is the shrine of reason and its faith makes easy the attainment of every goal. It is a gift from heaven, and the most to be desired, because heaven's first and it's greatest." Kathy Downer, by living through the vitality of her "soul," has personified Baltasar Gracian's philosophy in her years at Bryan Adams.

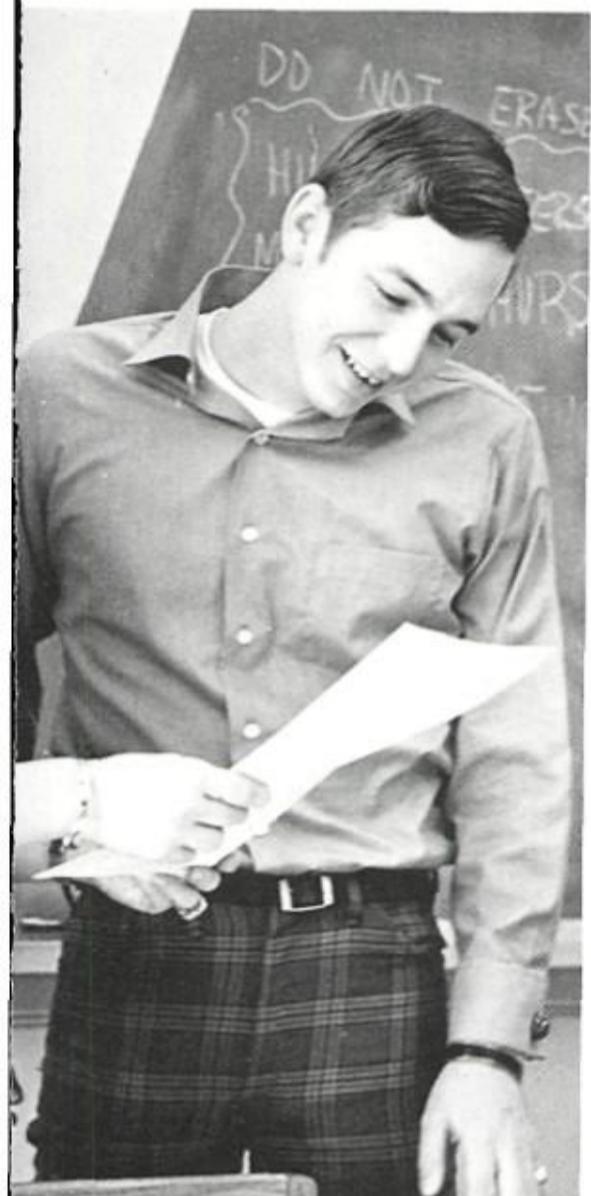

She has served as the BA Goals For Dallas representative, on the Student Council, and as a member of the National Honor Society. As a senior, Kathy was elected Senior Class Secretary, cheerleader alternate, and was nominated for Outstanding Teenager in America.

By virtue of outstanding work on the 1970 annual as Assistant Editor, Kathy was selected as Editor-in-Chief for the 1971 el Conquistador. She worked long hours to insure that the yearbook would live up to the life that is Bryan Adams. Because of her determination, scholarship, and the example of perfection she has set for those around her, the el Conquistador is proud to award the Gold Cougar to Kathy Downer.

KATHY DOWNE

Two Editors Honored With Gold Cougar

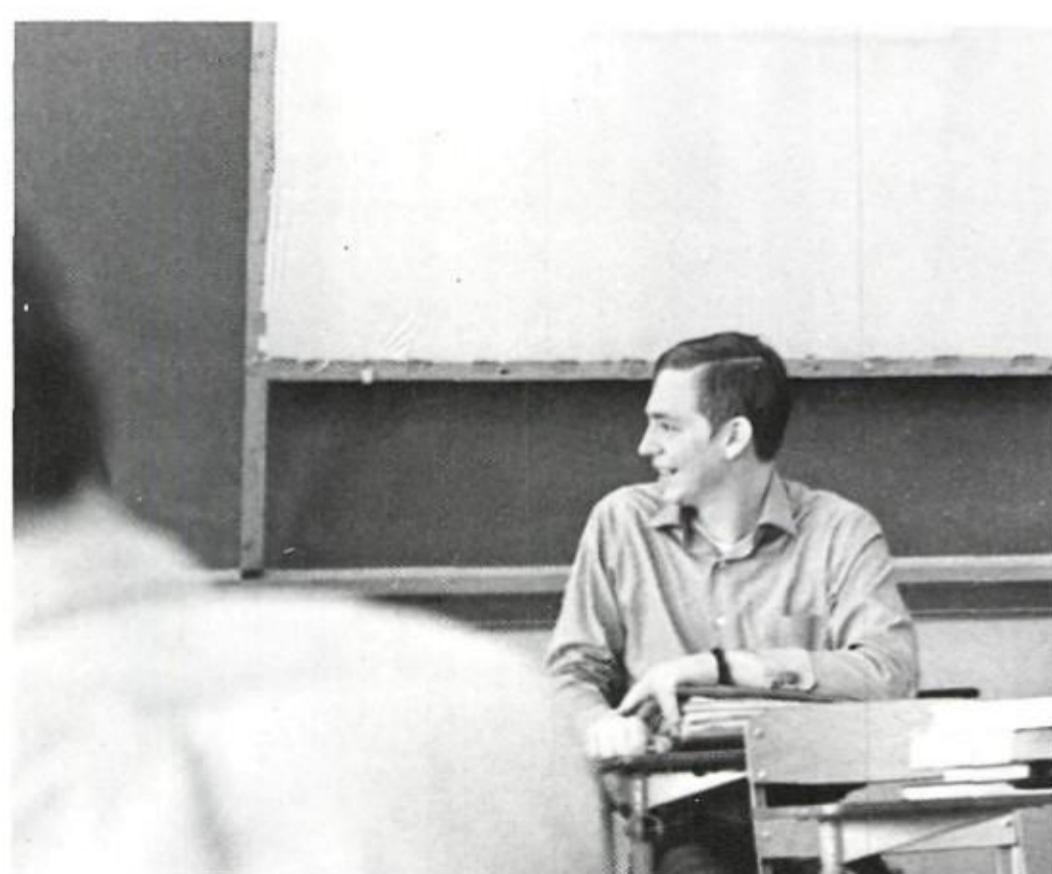

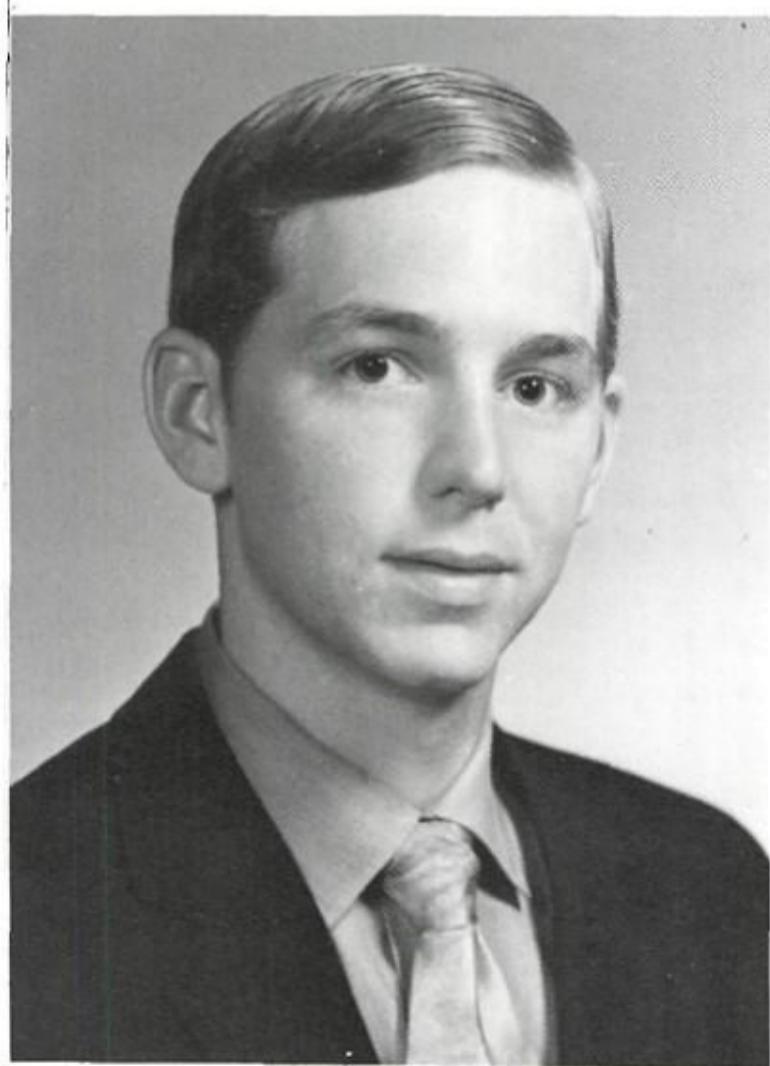

"Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding." This quotation from Proverbs 4 is aptly personified by Kyle Gooch. This three-year A Honor Roll student has made valuable contributions to Bryan Adams through his knowledge and understanding in the fields of music, language, mathematics, and literature.

Kyle has participated actively for three years in the Cougar marching and symphonic bands. He also served as a Student Council representative, Math Club Vice-President, Editor-in-Chief of the Senior Pub, and as a member of the National Honor Society.

As a member of the Spanish Club, Kyle contributed both his time and energies to the organization's betterment. He served as Club president his Junior year and won a scholarship to Saltillo, Mexico in 1969.

Kyle was a 1970 Essay Finalist in the National Council of English Teachers and participated in Bryan Adams' Creative Writing organization. The el Conquistador is pleased to present the Gold Cougar Award to Kyle Gooch.

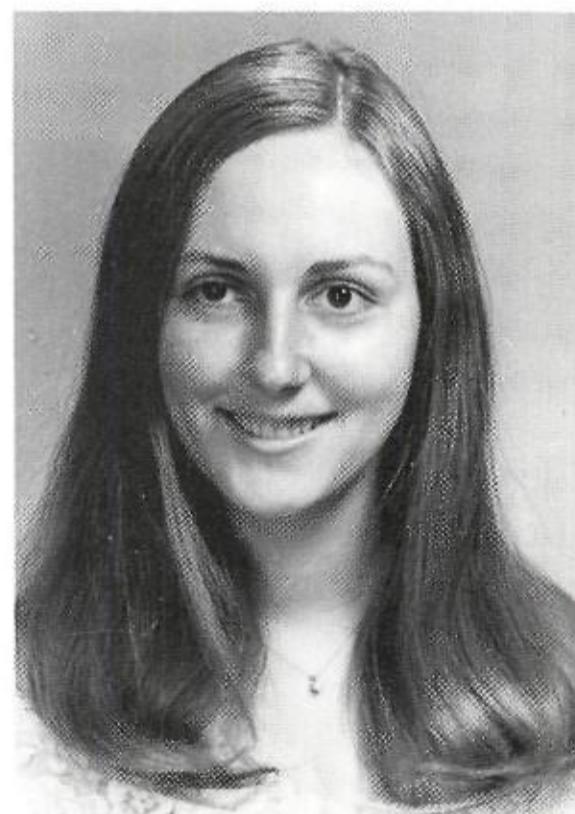

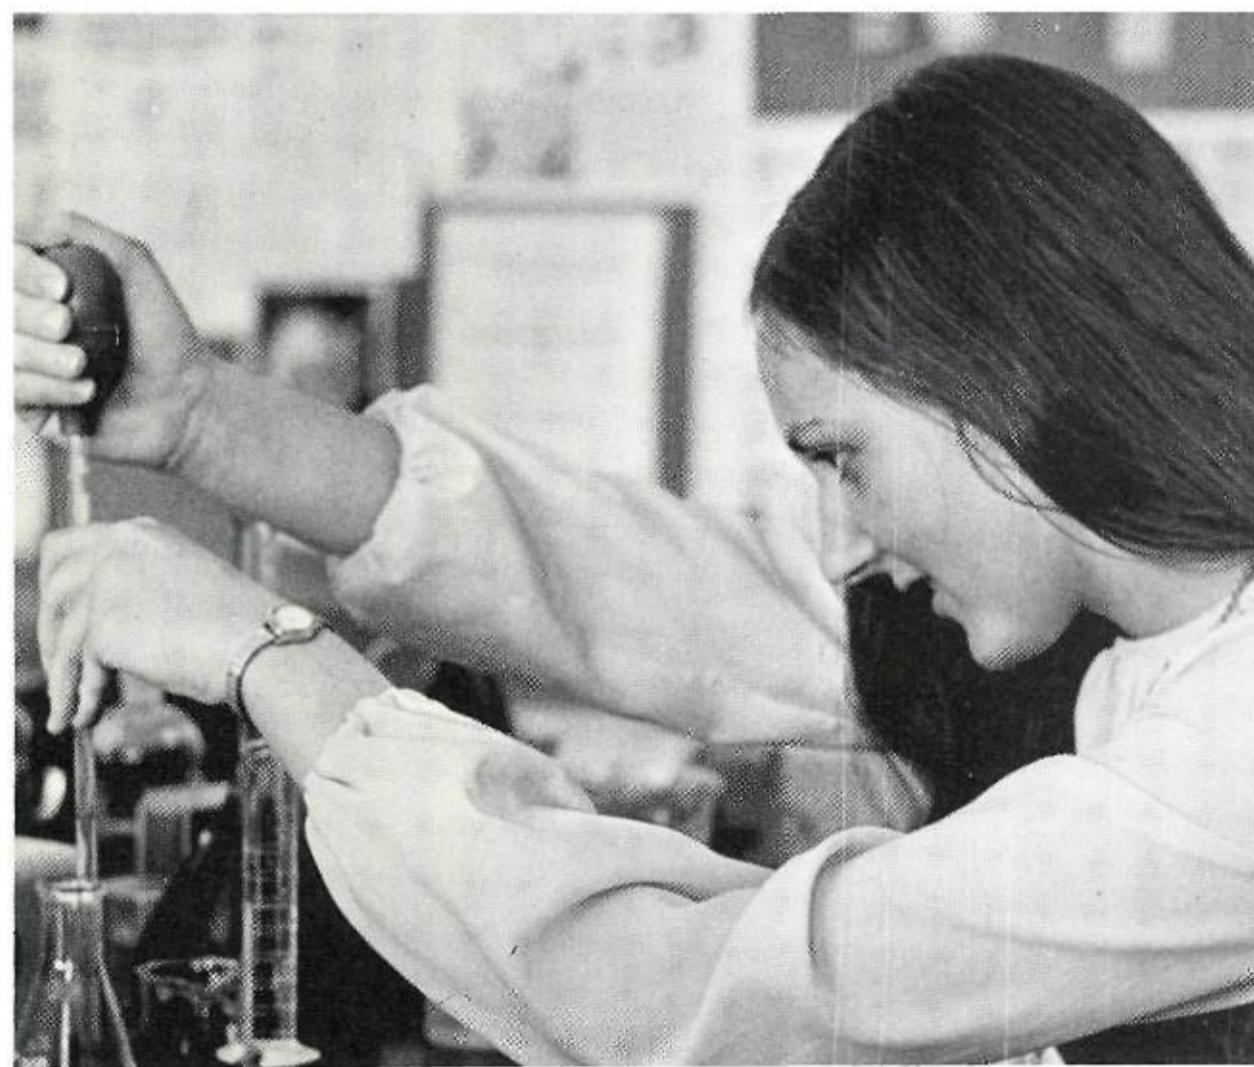

KYLE GOOCH

Gold Cougar Awarded to Musician, Swimmer

"Music is indivisible. The dualism of feeling and thinking must be resolved to a state of unity in which one thinks with the heart and feels with the brain." With these words George Szell sums up the essence of a potentially great musician, not merely a good one. He could have been writing about Susan Lamb, an individual excelling not only musically, but in the fields of mathematics and science as well.

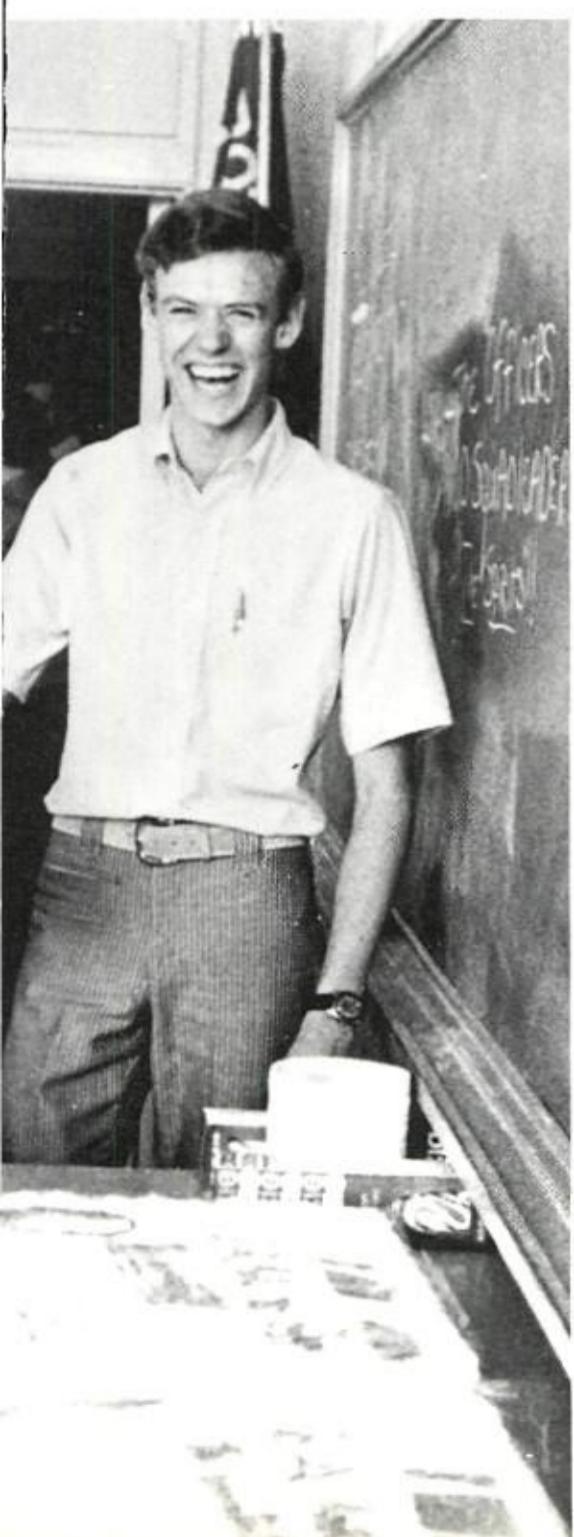

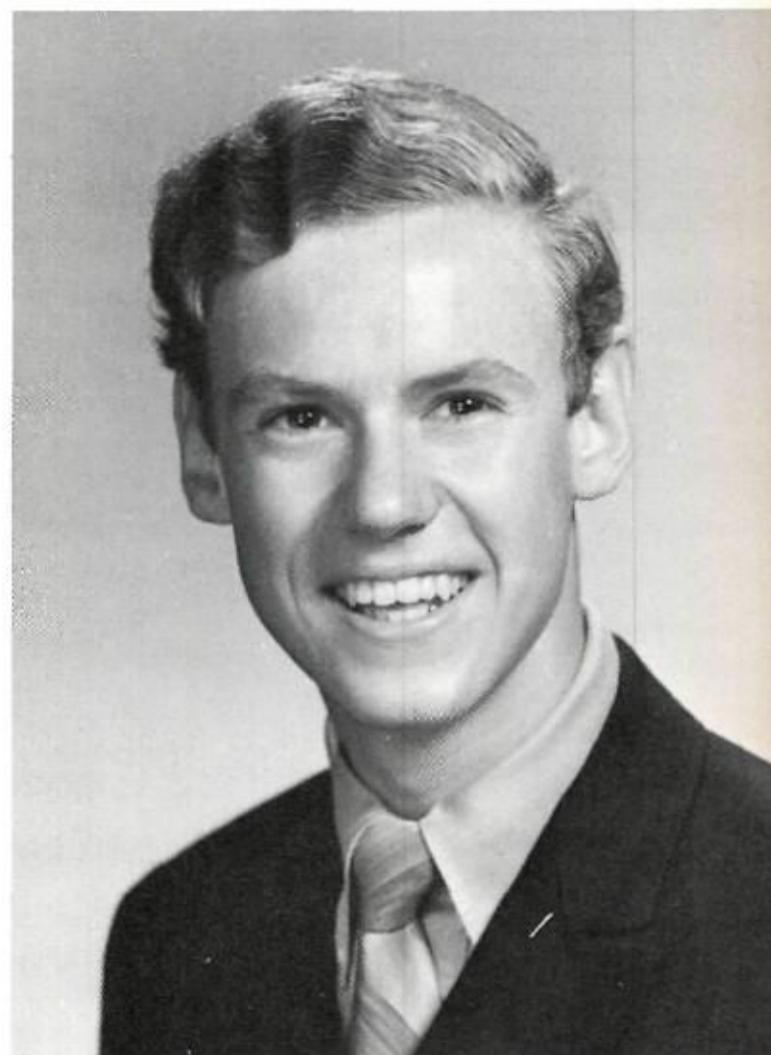

Contributing long hours of practice to the Cougar band and orchestra, Susan has won the respect and "awe" of her contemporaries. Her musical honors range from participation in the All-City to the All-State Band, the All-State Orchestra, the All-State High School Symphony, and the National Honors Orchestra.

As President of the BA Math Club and the honorary Mu Alpha Theta, Susan has uniquely represented her school, winning the Air Force Outstanding Award in Mathematical Sciences. Susan has also actively participated in the Science Club, in the National Honor Society, and was a National Merit Scholarship Finalist. The el Conquistador is proud to award a Gold Cougar to someone as deserving as Susan Lamb.

SUSAN LAMB

REINHARD ZIEGLER

"Give the best that you have to the highest you know — and do it now." This statement from Ralph W. Stockman emphasizes the need today for individuals of powerful character and determination. Reinhard Ziegler personifies both of these qualities through his participation in the ROTC program, the German Club, the National Honor Society, and on the BA Swim Team.

His genuine interest in others wins him valuable friendships and respect. As a three-year participant on the varsity swim team, Reinhard excelled, particularly in the backstroke. He ranked first in the hundred yards backstroke for 1971.

Reinhard also contributed his ability as a leader to the ROTC program. In his Junior year as the 14th Battalion's Sergeant Major, he received the Commandant's Ribbon, Senior Army Instructor's Ribbon, Color Guard Ribbon, and the Rifle Team Ribbon, along with honors for service, scholarship, athletics, and academic excellence. As a Senior, Reinhard served as the Battalion Executive Officer. He also acted as the 1971 German Club president and as director of the organization's contest play. The el Conquistador is pleased to present the Gold Cougar award to Reinhard Ziegler.

JOHN CLARK

"Nobody can be exactly like me. Sometimes even I have trouble doing it." These words of Tallulah Bankhead describing a unique sense of humor and quality of objective honesty are personified in John Clark. With his limitless work on the el Conquistador staff and his uncompromising individuality, John, also known as "Flash," has brought to light new perspectives at Bryan Adams.

As head photographer for the el C, he has devoted long hours to the planning, developing, and printing of "endless" staff photo requests. His ability to capture on film the impulsive vibrancy of excitement and the peaceful solitude of a quiet moment has given a new dimension to the yearbook. The el Conquistador is proud to salute John Clark.

"Christ died and rose and lives . . . laugh as if all the people in the whole world were invited to a picnic and then invite them." Jo Beth Stephenson perfectly reflects this idea of Christian happiness. She served Bryan Adams as Vice-President of the National Honor Society, Assistant Business Manager of the Cothurnus Club, and as a member of Thespians.

As a 2-year member of the el Conquistador staff, Jo Beth unscrambled word combinations as Copy Editor and interviewed uncertain club members as Organizations Editor. She also acted as Vice-President of Quill and Scroll. Because of her contributions to BA and her qualities as an individual, she has been nominated as an Outstanding Teenager of America. The el Conquistador is proud to salute Jo Beth Stephenson.

JO BETH STEPHENSON

Time and Effort Earn Students el C Salute

ANN KOVICH

"Look upon every day as the whole of life, not merely as a section; and enjoy and improve the present without wishing, through haste, to rush on to another." Ann Kovich, an outstanding individual in numerous areas at Bryan Adams, perfectly reflects the wisdom of these words by Richter.

In her Junior year, Ann placed in the Richardson High School and Baylor University debate tournaments and received a summer scholarship to Northwestern University. During her Senior year, Ann served as President of the National Forensic League. Along with her speech activities, she participated in the BA Band and the National Honor Society. The el Conquistador is proud to salute Ann Kovich.

"There is no magic formula for achieving creativity — it is simply a way of life in a laboratory of science dedicated to discovery and invention." Whether in the laboratory of science or music, Paul Low exemplified the creative abilities described by Dr. Paul Salzberg. He served BA as the 1971 president of the Concert Choir and as treasurer of the Cougar Marching Band.

Attending the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation Symposium, Paul represented the BA Science Club. He also served Bryan Adams as a member of the Math Club, Chess Club, and as alternate cheerleader. As a member of the Superintendent's Student Advisory Committee, Paul worked for greater harmony between the administration and individual schools. The el Conquistador is pleased to salute Paul Low.

PAUL LOW

Enthusiastic Students Awarded el C Salute

BONNIE COATNEY

"Gentleness is a divine trait; nothing is so strong as gentleness and nothing is so gentle as real strength." Bonnie Coatney possesses the unique qualities of gentle understanding and quiet strength described by Ralph W. Stockman. Her enthusiastic participation in Y-Teens, Spirits, Spanish Club, and as a Biology lab assistant evoked respect and admiration from everyone associated with her.

For three years Bonnie worked as a dispatcher, machine operator, and all-around industrious assistant in the IBM room. Her patience and sense of humor helped to overcome problems with "obstinate" report-card files and "scrambled" schedules. She also gave her time and energy to work on the Senior Play, Senior Pub, and Baccalaureate Committee. The el Conquistador is very proud to salute Bonnie Coatney.

"Science, freedom, beauty,: What more could you ask of life?" Charles Lindbergh made this statement after his famous flight. The same words could apply to the interests of David Winkler. His activities in the field of science, and any other area offering him a challenge, have enabled him to make significant contributions to Bryan Adams.

Interest in logic-challenging activities induced David to become a member of the BA Math, Science, and Chess Clubs. He served as president of the Chess Club both his Junior and Senior year and was Science Club president his Senior year. David is also a two-year member of the National Honor Society, lab assistant, el C photographer, and an instigator of the Scuba Club. The el Conquistador is proud to salute David Winkler.

DAVID WINKLER

MIKE ILAOA

"The harder a man works, the harder it is to surrender. Winning isn't a big thing — It's the only thing." Vince Lombardi's powerful words were reflected strongly in the consistent determination of the Cougar's 1971 Varsity Football Captain, Mike Ilaoa. Titled "Herbie" by his teammates, Mike led the Big Green to a 9-1 season of hard-fought play. Evincing few grins from the opposing linemen, Mike "tackled" his way to numerous athletic titles. He was named All-District, All-Greater Dallas, and All-Metro for '71.

Mike consistently made the B Honor Roll, supplying contagious enthusiasm in his classes. Because of his determination to always give his best, the el Conquistador salutes Mike Ilaoa.

"The human brain is a most unusual instrument of elegant, and as yet unknown capacity." Stuart Luman Seaton's words perfectly describe the individualism and creative potential of Beverly Fordham. Through her leadership at Bryan Adams in the fields of science and drama, Beverly has proven to be especially deserving of recognition.

In 1969, this outstanding individual placed first in three categories at the Dallas Regional Science Fair and first in five categories at the International Science Fair in Fort Worth. In addition to scientific achievements, Beverly has actively participated in numerous speech events and in Variety Theatre for three years. The el Conquistador is proud to salute a student as deserving as Beverly Fordham.

1971 Football Queen

Key Club Sweetheart

Throughout the 1970-1971 school year, Bryan Adams students selected queens to reign over special occasions and represent different school organizations. The girls were elected either by individual clubs or by the entire student body. Following the victory over W. T. White, the Homecoming Dance was held in the girl's gym. Toward the end of the dance, the five nominees were introduced and the queen was crowned. After outstanding seasons, both the football and basketball teams voted on a girl to specifically represent their organization.

Seniors of 1971 Strive for Improvement

Mighty green T-shirts and records of Astrodome music distinguished the year of 1971 from all previous years. Led by chosen class officers, the 1971 senior class swung its way through many memorable senior activities. The absence of exams marked not only the final semester but also mid-term. A new dress code brought to seniors the long awaited privilege of dressing casually. Class projects, the movie "Daddy's Gone A-Hunting," and numerous bake sales provided the senior class with funds for an active year. Traditions repeated over the years gained more meaning to those who would never share them again. Seniors '71 made another Bryan Adams first with green caps and gowns.

Bryan Adams has experienced a loss with the deaths of student Weldon Cain, faculty member Mrs. Vera McCauley, and community leader Mr. Ben F. Tisinger.

"lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime and, departing, leave behind us footprints on the sands of time."

— Henry W. Longfellow
